VIRTUALLY
NEW TREATY
TO BE HANDED TO GERMANS

Council Decides 25,000 Words of Explanations Shall Be Incorporated in the Text, Making Document Printed in the United States Obsolete.

CHANCE FOR GERMANY TO GET INTO LEAGUE

French Officials Believe Berlin Government Will Not Sign, but Will Be Overthrown by Radicals Who Will Accept Terms.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 13.—The peace treaty with Germany will be entirely rewritten and reprinted for the incorporation of the explanations and clarifications collected in the allied reply to the German counter proposals.

The reply will be printed in French and English at the National Printing Works and will cover about 50 pages.

While unchanged in principle, virtually a new document will be presented to the Germans.

The Council of Four, it develops, decided that simply to attach the reply to the original document was impracticable, as important clauses would be left obscure and imperfect.

Text in U. S. Obsolete.
It was commented in peace conference circles today that this action renders obsolete the text published in the United States.

The reply to the German counter proposals is likely to be made public Monday, according to present plans. It is expected that the text of the German counter proposals, which has never been given out, also will be made public shortly.

The Council of Four today devoted both of its sessions to the revision of the text of the treaty. When the forenoon session ended the council had sent to the revision commission 18 reports. Among those remaining to be passed are several dealing with important subjects including the Saar Valley, Alsace-Lorraine and the league of nations. The revision commission, which is in constant session, is headed by Andre Tardieu of the French mission.

The British have made an eleven-hour attempt to reopen the question of reparations. They have submitted proposals for introducing into the functions of the permanent Reparations Committee the principle of control of raw materials, etc., furnished to Germany, enabling the commission to control Germany's economic development during the period it operates.

The British effort has not met with a sympathetic reception by the Reparations Commission, to which it was referred. It seems improbable that the proposals will be accepted, but they constitute one of the causes of the delay of the reply to the Germans, which it was rumored today probably would not be presented until Monday.

A complete accord has been reached in principle on all questions connected with the reply to the German counter proposals. It was stated in responsible quarters last night that the French and American peace conference circles are highly gratified at this favorable turn after the prolonged differences of the past fortnight, verging on a deadlock.

The agreement in principle leaves only the details and drafting, which it is said could be accomplished by tonight, though the expectation is that actual delivery of the document to the Germans will not take place before Saturday night.

The agreement concerning the admission of Germany is the same as drawn by Lord Robert Cecil and E. M. House, with the omission of the fourth condition, requiring Germany to abandon compulsory military service. M. Clemenceau, president of the conference, contested this condition as likely to precipitate the same question in France, and the council finally dropped it. No time has been fixed for Germany's entrance, but if she conforms to the conditions it is expected she will be represented at the first meeting of the assembly.

The Silesian settlement is based on BALTIMORE, June 13.—The most important case of falsifying income tax reports that has come under the Federal government investigations and criminal prosecution was recorded yesterday in the United States District Court when Judge Rose sentenced Samuel M. Wallach of the wholesale firm of Goodman, Wallach & Helber to serve one year and a half in the Federal prison at Atlanta.

According to the testimony, Wallach failed to turn in proper income tax reports for sums amounting to $54,000 in the years from 1914 to 1918. Two income tax agents testified to having received between them $400 from Wallach.

Judge Holtkamp Allows Sum From Estate of Late E. D. Tilton to Purchase Diamond.

O. S. Tilton, 6843 Waterman avenue, was granted permission today by Judge Holtkamp in the Probate Court to allow his ward, Webster Tilton, a younger brother, 19 years old, $1350 from the estate of his father, the late E. D. Tilton, to purchase a diamond engagement ring. O. S. Tilton did not mention the court the name of his brother's intended bride or the date for the wedding. Afterward, when questioned by a Post-Dispatch reporter, he said that the parties were not yet ready to announce the engagement, and indicated that no announcement would be made in the near future.

Webster Tilton's income from his share of his father's estate is estimated at $25,000 a year.

K-5 Runs Beneath Surface of Mississippi From Free Bridge to Market Street, While Planes Fly Above.

FLOTILLA ARRIVES FOR WEEK'S VISIT

Exhibition Completes Transportation Picture With Nearby Trains, Trolley Cars and Automobiles.

The United States navy submarine K-5, flagship of the anti-submarine flotilla, ran under the surface of the Mississippi River from the free bridge to Market street, upon the arrival of the flotilla at the downtown waterfront at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The U. S. S. Isabel, a destroyer type, and three submarine chasers, are the other water craft of the flotilla.

The K-5 was submerged for 15 minutes, her conning tower being visible for a part of this time, then only her periscope, and at Market street she went down, for a minute, so far that the periscope disappeared. Then she came up, and a sailor appeared from the conning tower, waving a flag.

The submarine's exhibition, with the flying circus which was being given at the same time by the three seaplanes of the flotilla, which were flying alternately over and under the free bridge, was the most novel war-time show that St. Louis has seen. Passing trains on the levee elevated structure, trolley cars on Eads bridge and automobiles and motor trucks on both bridges, completed an exposition of modern transportation.

Hundreds Witnessed Arrival.
The arrival of the flotilla was seen by a gathering of a few hundred persons on the levee, and by a line of people in motor vehicles along the Free Bridge. The spectators were chiefly casual ones, but the flotilla got its official welcome from a party of city officials and members of the reception committee.

On the way to the Free Bridge, the flotilla had, as an air escort, not only the three seaplanes, but three army planes, of Curtiss-H type, from Scott Field, near St. Louis, and a number of these flew high, executing a series of stunts, and left the low air to the seaplanes. They departed before the submarine had finished its exhibition.

several of these robberies, he said, he was aided by Bergmann.

Robbery Planned in Advance.

They began planning for the Meramec Trust Co. robbery about a week ago, Hunter said, the suggestion first being made by Bergmann, whose home was not far from the bank.

Bergmann, he said, agreed to furnish a suit case and bring his own revolver. They met Tuesday night at a downtown hotel, he said, and Wednesday night they stayed at the home of Tony Sansone, 2907 North Grand avenue.

Yesterday, about noon, he said, they went to a restaurant near Grand and Olive street and when Hunter was hanging up his coat there a revolver dropped from his pocket. "I thought it was all up then," he said, "but nobody noticed it."

They went to Missouri and Lafayette avenue on a street car, he said, and there met a man whom he named only as "Jim," who had a service automobile and driver waiting for them.

Went to Bank in Auto.

The four, he said, drove to the bank in the machine, which was stopped a short distance from the bank entrance. Hunter said he did not know what became of "Jim," who took no active part in the robbery.

After the bank hold-up, he said, Bergmann had the money in the suit case and they started from the bank Hunter said he looked from the window and across the street he saw a police Sergeant now known to have been Sergt. William O'Brien, a brother of Chief of Police O'Brien.

"I decided to take a pop at the Sergeant," said Hunter. "I broke the glass with my fist and pointed my revolver at him and pulled the trigger, but the gun was jammed and wouldn't shoot. I unloaded it and put in other cartridges and then I opened fire on the Sergeant. He fired back."

"Everybody Chased Us."

"We ran out of the bank and it looked as if everybody in South St. Louis was chasing us. I'm confused about the chase. I know we jumped in a peddler's wagon and it turned over. Then we ran into a house and went to the second floor and looked out of a window and saw policemen everywhere."

"We went downstairs and looked out a rear window. There were policemen in the yard, too, and we went in the basement. Bergmann said: 'What'll we do?' I said: 'It's a case of life or death. We can get a life sentence for robbery and we can't get more than a life sentence if we shoot a policeman or two. They can't hang us. It's better to take the law in this State. So, we'd better shoot our way out.' Bergmann said he was with me and we'd shoot our way out."

Tells of Wounding of Ward.

Describing the shooting of Patrolman Ward, Hunter said: "Just then a policeman came tiptoeing down the basement stairs. (This was at the home of H. Roy, 4256 Minnesota avenue, where Hunter and Bergmann hid themselves in the basement). He called out: 'Who's down here?' Bergmann and I shot about the same time. The policeman fell. We kicked him and rolled him over and took his gun."

"We went upstairs and looked out the front door. Some policemen were just coming in and we slammed the door in their faces. Then we went to the back window and saw a Sergeant coming into the yard. We opened fire and he fell."

The Sergeant referred to was Sergt. Smith.

Patrolman Ward's revolver, which was taken from him by Hunter and Bergmann, was found by Sergt. Nicholas Phillips in the asphalt at Michigan and Dakota street where Bergmann was captured. One of the shells was empty, confirming the statement in the confession of the robbers that they had shot the policeman with his own revolver.

Hunter then told of the chase through the alley and the capture, which he said did not take place until he and Bergmann had run out of ammunition. When they started out, he said, they had 72 cartridges. He said he and Bergmann had to shoot the policeman, but added: "We might as well go up for life for murder as for robbery."

Hunter said he and Bergmann had planned that if they got away with the bank money they would open a soda water and ice cream store "when the country went dry July 1."

Hunter Had Recommendations.

Hunter told the police he was assigned as a school teacher and a factory instructor while in the penitentiary. After being discharged, he said, he obtained letters of recommendation from several manufacturing companies which use convict labor at Jefferson City. These, he said, were written on the firms' letter-head, but said nothing about his having been a convict. On the strength of these letters, he said, he obtained employment at the Statler Hotel.

The last meeting to plan the robbery, he said, was held in a saloon at Eighteenth street and Park avenue Wednesday night.

Planned to Go Into Business.

Hunter said it was the plan to rob the bank and then jump in the automobile and drive over a zigzag course to O'Fallon Park, where the money would be divided. The men were to remain in the park until dark and then separate. There was an understanding, he said, that he and Bergmann were to meet in two weeks and perfect their arrangements for going into the ice cream and soda business.

The attempted robbery was at one of the busiest corners in South St. Louis. The intersection of Meramec street and Virginia avenue is a much-used transfer point, as the Bellefontaine line and the terminus of the Grand avenue line touch each other at that corner. At all hours of the day persons are waiting for cars near the bank.

The Meramec Trust Co. has a capital stock of $50,000. Its officers are H. F. Reis, president; F. C. Fieburg and Emil Schray, vice presidents; J. G. Lowe Jr., secretary and treasurer, and B. E. Grace, assistant secretary and treasurer.

Sergt. Smith lives at 3627A Missouri avenue and has a wife, two daughters and a son. He has been a policeman since March 15, 1915.

Patrolman Ward was a bachelor. His home was at 3549 Vista avenue and his nearest relative was an invalid sister, whom he supported. His aged mother died recently. He had been a policeman since 1911.

C. S. Abell, assistant manager at Hotel Statler, who hired Hunter as a clerk in the hotel on March 15, last, was surprised to learn he had served a penitentiary term.

Worked at Hotel Statler.

"He came to us," he said, "recommended by a person in whom we had confidence. This man, whose name I do not care to divulge, said he was a good young man. He described Hunter as a clean-cut young fellow, and said he ought to make a good clerk. I got in touch with a few persons whose names were given to me in regard to him and finally gave him the position of key clerk."

"He did not stay with us long, however. He was irregular in his habits. He would not show up on time, and we noticed that he lacked some of the little niceties of address over, with the doctor's name on it, I stated in the note that I was waiting on a patient and was unable to get away."

"Bergmann, the man arrested with me on the bank robbery charge, was my confederate in passing these checks, and he would follow the kid to the bank and would see if it worked. He would signal me with his handkerchief, and the wiping of his nose with the handkerchief meant that they would not cash it."

"The burglary of the Steiner Bros. Furniture Co. at 2208 South Broadway was the first big burglary job we pulled off. The newspapers stated there was $1800 worth of stuff stolen but we took an inventory of the stolen stuff, all silks, and used the same tags for the prices, and it only totaled $1100."

Tells of Peddling Loot.

"Bergmann and I pulled the job together. We took the stuff to 1116 St. Anne avenue and then we peddled it at different places. We tried to get rid of it all at the same place, but we could not do so."

"When we reached Broadway with the stolen articles Bergmann looked at the watch and it was about 5 o'clock."

"The next burglary Bergmann and I pulled off was at Feldman's, 1718 South Broadway, or in that neighborhood. We got four suitcases full of silk shirts, silk hose and neckties, and we got rid of it the same way. It took between eight and ten days to get rid of it. I would go to a hotel and check the suitcases and make inquiries among bellhops and see if they needed any thing. If they wanted a shirt I would ask the size and get it out for them."

Other Burglaries.

"The next burglary was at Feader's drug store, 2354 Park avenue. Bergmann and I were together and we got cigars and cigarettes and sold them at a saloon near Eighteenth and Olive streets. We sold about $75 worth to the proprietor himself."

"The next job was at Witte's haberdashery, Jefferson and Gravois. We that are required of hotel men who come in contact with the guests. So we had to discharge him. I think he worked at the hotel, in all, about 15 days. He did not present any letters of recommendation to me. I remember now, however, that those who recommended him spoke of him as a person for whom they wished to do something. They wanted to help him along."

cashier was standing in the door. Bergmann forced the cashier back into the cage and I stepped in the front door. I was carrying the hand bag to put the money in and a woman came to the door about this time and tried to get in. I wanted to let her in so that she could not raise an alarm and tried to open the door, which had closed and became locked or caught, for it would not open to my efforts. I called to the cashier for the keys and he told me the doors were not locked. I tried it again, but could not open it. The woman then walked east on Meramec street and I went behind the cage and into the vault while Jim and Bergmann had them covered in the bank."

"I unstrapped the hand bag and passed the silver in. The silver was wrapped in paper and was in four boxes. I emptied the four boxes into the bag and I then put two packages of Liberty Bonds in the bag. While I was doing this Jim came in and put several packages of currency into the bag. The bag was packed and Bergmann called to us that there was a copper at the front door."

"He was looking in and I picked my gun on the bars of the cashier's cage and took aim at him and pulled the trigger, but the gun snapped and would not fire. The copper saw me aim at him and stepped away and went around on the Virginia avenue side and the next time I saw him when he was standing behind an automobile at the curb opposite the Virginia avenue entrance to the bank."

"I then saw a Sergeant of Police coming north on Virginia and got behind a telephone pole at the southwest corner of Meramec and Virginia. I noticed that both the Sergeant and the patrolman had their guns drawn and had us covered. The front door would not open and the Virginia avenue entrance was covered, and I figured that we were trapped."

"I pushed the revolver I was carrying through the front window and took aim at the Sergeant, who I later learned was Sergt. William O'Brien. I took deliberate aim and the gun again refused to go off when I pulled the trigger."

How He Drew Policeman's Fire.

"I opened up the gun and looked at the shells and then closed it. I then took the shot at the officer behind the automobile, with the intention of drawing his fire and having him empty his gun so that we would have a chance to get out of the door. As I figured that was the only way to get out. In that time the officer had fired 10 shots at me as I would jump out and jump back again."

"I paid no attention to Jim and Bergmann, and when I turned to see where they were I noticed that the door leading to the alley was open and that Jim and Bergmann were gone. I then ran out the door that was open into the alley and saw Jim. Bergmann was carrying the handbag which had the money in it. Bergmann and I joined and ran north to Meramec in search of the machine and flung that the kid driving it had driven away. We ran east on Meramec about a half block, but the handbag was too heavy for Bergmann and he dropped it. We continued to run until we saw a peddler's wagon and got into it."

"Bergmann drove the horses at full speed and the wagon skidded as we turned a corner at half past. The wagon overturned and I have since learned, killed one of the horses. We jumped from the wagon and ran until we reached the basement of a house, which I do not know the exact location."

"A copper (Patrolman Ward) entered the basement and started up some steps leading to the first floor. Bergmann and I fired at him and he fell to the basement. Bergmann and I then ran up the basement stairs and into the house. When I reached the kitchen window I noticed a Sergeant (Smith) giving orders to some officers. Bergmann and I again both fired at him. He fell and I think all of our shots took effect in his body."

"I ran out the front door and got across the lot. We separated. I ran

Both Men Held in Bank Robbery Served Prison Terms.

Earl Hunter was arrested June 29, 1917, in front of 4230 Olive street and charged with carrying concealed weapons. With him was Albert D. Inman. They confessed to a series of highway robberies in the West and were identified by Dr. Frank Wilson of 4530A Euclid avenue and Charles Remington, a druggist at 4501 Olive street, who had been held up.

On Aug. 17, 1917, they were sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary at Jefferson City. Hunter today said he was paroled Feb. 17 last by Gov. Gardner to James Scully, head of the waiters' union in St. Louis.

Bergmann was sentenced to the Industrial Farm for two years for petit larceny in 1913. He entered the army after his release and the record shows that Oct. 27, 1917, he

HUNTER PAROLED AT REQUEST OF C. J. LAMMERT

Prison Records Show Governor Acted on Feb. 17 on Personal Plea of Election Commissioner.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—An examination of prison records here today showed that the release of Earl Hunter, St. Louis bank robber and murderer, from the Missouri penitentiary, was made upon a parole issued Feb. 17 last, and signed by Gov. Gardner, in response to the personal plea of Charles J. Lammert, Democratic member of the board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis, and president of the Building Trades Council. Lammert was appointed to the Election Board by Gov. Gardner.

The records also show that the rule of the Pardon Board, requiring a recommendation for a parole from the trial Judge and Prosecuting Attorney, was ignored in Hunter's case. The records also show that Hunter was not a first offender, because he admitted, at the time of his arrest, that he had committed two highway robberies and had attempted two others.

Plea by Lammert.

There is no letter or recommendation, either to Gov. Gardner or to the State Pardon Board, on record here asking that Hunter be paroled, except the personal letter from Lammert to Gardner.

"I think the boy should be given another chance. His mother is willing for him to enlist in the army and I personally appeal to you to grant this request under these conditions,"

Your grateful friend,

CHARLES J. LAMMERT.

Military authorities will not accept for service any man who has served a term in the penitentiary.

The review will be conducted by the Home Guard Committee, consisting of Richard S. Hawes, Mayor Kiel, Senator Spencer, M. L. Wilkinson, Thomas H. Loveland and Col. Philip R. Fouke, commander of the regiment. Lieutenant-Colonel Charles E. Michel is second in command of the regiment.

The Third Regiment will remain in service two weeks longer.

OVER RACE TROUBLE

Fifteen Injured by Throwing of Rocks and Shooting by Attendants in Row Between Whites and Negroes

The 150 workhouse prisoners who participated but were uninjured in a riot in the workhouse yesterday afternoon, in which 15 others were hurt, surrendered to the police at 6 o'clock this morning, after an all-night mutiny during which they were herded in the quarry, the negroes in one end and the whites in the other.

Easily Taken to Cells. Exhausted from a night of exposure and no sleep, the prisoners were easily taken to their cells, where most of them fell asleep. H. N. Morgan, the superintendent, announced that none would receive any food until they told all essential details of the cause of the riot and the circumstances which made it possible.

Only two guards were on duty at the quarry when the riot started with white prisoners hurling bombs, which had been smuggled into the quarry, and which are believed to have contained nitroglycerin. Into the group of 90 negro prisoners. The negroes began hurling rocks at the white prisoners, and the entire mass of 165 prisoners were immediately involved in the riot.

Guards Fired on Prisoners. The guards, John Fornow and Howard Sappington, fired many times into the fighting prisoners. Fifteen men were injured: wounded when reinforcements of guards arrived in separating the whites from the blacks, some with bullet wounds and others with wounds suffered in the fight.

Morgan was in his office when he heard several loud explosions in the quarry, which he at first supposed were explosions of dynamite used in blasting rock, but a minute later he heard a revolver shot, and realized that the first explosions were too loud for the ordinary charge of dynamite.

With clerks from the office and guards from other parts of the institution, he hurried to the quarry, but by the time he arrived, the riot was ended.

Refused to Return. The prisoners refused to return to their cells, and Morgan gave orders to the guards and a detail of policemen from the Wyoming Street Station not to attempt to force them, as they feared they would be worse off.

All night long 16 workhouse guards and 29 policemen remained on duty to prevent escapes. The white men were kept at the north end of the quarry, and the negroes at the south end, about 400 feet apart. Throughout the night they cursed and yelled at each other, but made no further attempts to fight.

At 10 o'clock the lights were extinguished. Morgan believes by a prisoner in another part of the workhouse, and for more than an hour the place was in darkness. A trouble crew from the Union Electric Light and Power Co. made the necessary repairs.

Work Stopped for Day. Work had stopped for the day in the quarry and the men were on their way to their cells when the riot began. The white prisoners had reached the upper end of two stone ledges and the negroes were on the lower ledge, when several white prisoners, so far unidentified by the workhouse authorities, dropped explosives among the negroes. Morgan believes the explosives were in the nature of bombs. Guards found on a roadway leading to the quarry a small tin can with a short fuse at the end. This bomb, if it proves on analysis to be one, would require lighting, but Morgan believes those exploded in the quarry were discharged by percussion.

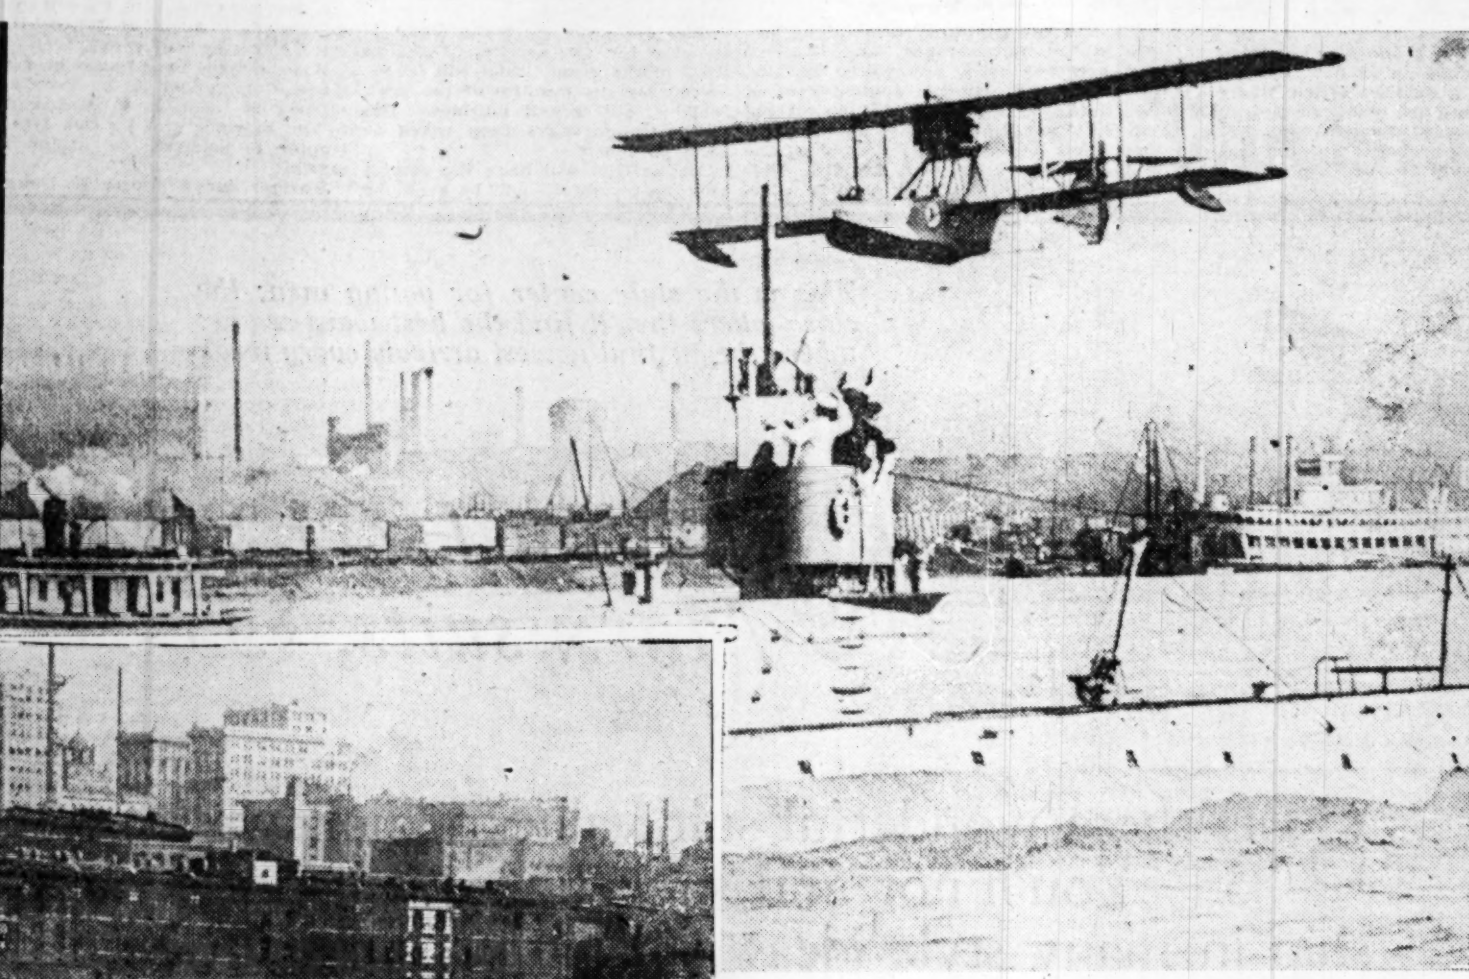

It is his opinion that friends of prisoners concealed the explosives in the quarry the previous night and that certain of the prisoners knew where it could be found. There is no quarry guard at night except one department employee who is on watch at the machinery house.

Weapons in Quarry Before. Weapons frequently have been discovered in the quarry, but Morgan said it was so large and access to it easily obtained that it would be almost impossible to maintain adequate guard to prevent weapons, drugs and other contraband from being smuggled into it. Roughly the quarry is 150 feet long, 450 feet wide and 250 feet deep.

No prisoners were at work in the institution today, and there was no sign of disturbance. Yesterday's riot was the first of any consequence in the history of the institution. Morgan said today that he knew of no way to reach a solution of its causes and to learn how the explosives were obtained except to starve the prisoners until they told. He expressed confidence that this treatment soon would bring out the desired information.

Climax of a Busy Day. The riot was the climax of a busy day for the police of the Wyoming Street District. They had just had all available men engaged in a battle with bank robbers who entered the Meramec Trust Co., two policemen having been seriously wounded, and two bandits having been captured, when the call for help came from the workhouse.

Morgan, discussing the causes of the riot, said that there was gossip that a quarrel between a negro and a white prisoner about a cartoon in a magazine was the beginning. He has been unable to learn what the cartoon was, or just what there was about it that caused the quarrel.

He said that he did not have a sufficient number of guards in the institution and had appealed to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment several days ago for additional guards, but had been informed there was no money available for that purpose.

Desperate Prisoners There. He also said that the workhouse which presumably is for the confinement of persons convicted of minor offenses, in reality is crowded with desperate criminals who, although arrested for committing felonies, had been permitted to plead guilty to misdemeanors, and sent to the workhouse. Most of them, he said, should be in the penitentiary.

Most of the prisoners injured were negroes. Edgar Snider, white, was shot in the right shoulder, thigh and leg. Beverly Martinez, a Mexican, suffered severe body lacerations. The negroes injured were Raymond Martin, injured on head; Isaac Nelson, gunshot wound in abdomen; James Rice, spike wounds in head and neck; Isaac Glasper, lacerations of the body; Douglas Moore, bruises on head and face; David Wall, lacerations of the body; George Sherman, gunshot wound in right arm; Henry McCann, lacerations of the body; "Boston" Rucker, spike wounds on head and neck; William Smith, lacerations and spike wounds on body; William Lawson, gunshot wound in right arm; Fred Wilson, scalp wounds; Anderson Dunlap, lacerations of the body.

ON ARRIVAL OF THE ANTI-U-BOAT FLOTILLA

UP-SR, which is on its way here from New Orleans, is independent of the flotilla, and may not arrive here until after the flotilla has departed.

As a result of the arrival of the flotilla, two days ahead of its original schedule, it was decided to hold tomorrow afternoon and night, in Forest Park, the exhibition program of water sports which had been planned for next Tuesday afternoon.

In this exhibition, if it is found the lagoon basin is of sufficient size for them to exhibit and arise safely.

Parachute Signal Flights Included. It is planned to use the seaplanes in this exhibition, if it is found the lagoon basin is of sufficient size for them to exhibit and arise safely.

Before dark there will be exhibitions of high diving, water polo and catamaran races. After dark, it is planned to show night flying and signaling by the seaplanes. Parachute flights, also, will be shown in the afternoon.

St. Louis are expected to be shown in this demonstration.

Moving pictures of the American and Allied fleets, in wartime service, will be shown at the foot of Art Hill after dark, and the flotilla band and a fleet club will give a concert.

The seaplanes are to fly to Chicago Monday, according to present plans, and to return Wednesday. On the return, it is planned to have the planes circle over the Cardinals' park, where a game with Brooklyn will be in progress.

The U. S. S. Isabel, which carries the larger part of the personnel of the flotilla, is a destroyer type. She was under construction as a yacht for an automobile manufacturer at the beginning of the war, and was taken over and completed by the navy, and saw active service in foreign waters. She has two guns fore and one aft.

K-5 151 Feet Long. The K-5, which is the flagship of the flotilla, is a Holland type submarine, length 151 feet, beam 16 feet, draft 14 feet. She is equipped with two eight-cylinder Diesel engines and a storage battery used for submerged work.

The K-5 carries eight torpedoes and has four torpedo tubes. The torpedoes have a range of three and a half miles, and were manufactured by the United States Government. When war was declared the K-5 was undergoing overhaul at the navy yard, Philadelphia. She left Halifax, N. S., Oct. 4, 1917, for Ponta Delgada, Azores, arrived Oct. 27, 1917, and commenced submarine work immediately. She left Azores May 1, 1918, and arrived at Hampton Roads, Va., May 18, 1918.

Proceeding to Philadelphia, she underwent a complete overhaul, installing new engines and fitting all new devices, making the K-5 one of the most efficient submarines of the navy. She left Philadelphia Sept. 27, 1918, for New London, Conn., and was forced to leave on one of the crew and two officers in Philadelphia with the "flu."

When passing Delaware Capes, passed over a mine unknowingly, which 15 minutes later was struck by the U. S. S. Minnesota. She proceeded to New London, Conn., and Newport, R. I., to train new crew and prove torpedoes. She left New London Jan. 6 for Key West, Fla., without tender. This vessel can run at the speed of 13 knots on the surface and 10½ knots submerged.

Berrien in Command. The commanding officer of the flotilla is Lieutenant Commander Thomas G. Berrien of El Paso, who was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1913. He was engineering officer on the K-5, and went to the war zone with the first American submarine group to be sent there. He was in command of the K-5 at New London, Conn., with orders to proceed again to the war zone, when the signing of the armistice caused the order to be recalled.

Lieut. T. N. Vinson commanding the Isabel, is a native of St. Louis. He was appointed to the Naval Academy from California in 1910, being graduated four years later, and has been in the submarine service. Lieut. Vinson took the Isabel to Key West from the navy yard at Philadelphia to join the flotilla.

The submarine chaser commanders are Ensign H. E. Aker of New Orleans, who has been here for several days with his boat; Ensign F. A. Van Patten of Norfolk, Va.

Lieut. (junior grade) J. V. K. Richards of Philadelphia is engineering officer of the submarine K-3. He had his training at Florida navy flying bases, and has been with the K-5 since July 1 last.

BANK OFFICIAL AND POLICEMAN TELL OF HOLD-UP AND CHASE

Trio Showed Signs of Nervousness When They Entered Office With Drawn Revolvers, Secretary Says.

Details of the robbery in the bank were related to a Post-Dispatch reporter by Joseph G. Lowe Jr., of 6144 Westminster place, secretary and treasurer of the Meramec Trust Co., who was alone in the bank with Forest Cannon, the 16-year-old off-f-boy, when the robbers entered. "I was inside the teller's cage going over some papers about 2 p. m. an hour before the regular closing time, when the side door, on the Virginia avenue side of the building, opened and three men entered," he said. "All of them carried revolvers and the leader, a well-dressed young fellow wearing a mustache (Hunter), had two guns.

"Hold up your hands," said the leader, and I obeyed. There was nothing else for me to do. The men appeared nervous and their hands shook as they pointed the pistols at me and young Cannon, who had been reading a newspaper in the front of the room and who came back near me when the three walked in. I was afraid that in their nervousness they would accidentally discharge the revolvers, so I assumed the leader I would do anything he asked.

Cage Entered by Robbers. "The door to the teller's cage was unlocked, the leader motioned to his companions to come inside. I then noticed that one of them, Bergmann, was carrying a valise. All three continued to point their revolvers at us while they looked around inside the cage. I again noticed their nervousness and told them that they did not have to worry about me, and as a guarantee of my behavior I told them where an automatic revolver was hidden in a drawer on the counter and where another was concealed in the vault.

"The tall fellow with the mustache got the automatics and then directed the collection of the money. He ordered one of them, the one who is missing, to watch me. Bergmann took the valise up to the money tills, which were open and in which were $25,000 in cash, $5,000 in gold and $50 bills, and began stuffing them into the valise. The leader went into the vault, which also was wide open, and began ransacking a large safe, the door of which had been closed.

Money Placed in Suit Case. "While the leader was inside the vault Bergmann began putting some of the money into his pockets. The third man shouted: 'Say, put all that in the suit case and hurry it up.' "The leader then came out with handfuls of Liberty Bonds and currency, which he had taken from the safe. He dumped these into the suit case.

Virginia avenue, Bergmann carrying the suitcase, which was loaded with currency, Liberty Bonds and a considerable amount of silver, taken from the money tills. I could see them passing the bank window as they ran to the corner and turned east on Meramec. Honerkamp was that time sat up. He was dazed by the blow on the jaw from the robber. We all ran out the same door the robbers had used.

All of Loot Recovered. Lowe said that when he reached the corner he saw the robbers a half block east on Meramec street. Policemen and civilians were firing at them, he declared, and when the robbers reached a point just beyond St. Anthony's Catholic Church, a man carrying the suitcase dropped it. Lowe ran to the place and picked up the suitcase, with the stolen money and Liberty Bonds intact, carrying it back to the bank.

Lowe's statement that Bergmann had put some of the money into his pockets was supported by the finding of about $1100 in five, ten and twenty dollar bills in Bergmann's pockets when the latter was searched at the Wyoming Street Station.

They ran out the side door into the basement stairs, and as they reached the bottom I heard four shots, some of which came near my head. I saw Ward fall, and then decided to back out the way I had come, and get help. I closed the basement door and went up into the yard, and called to the woman of the house to look the inside basement door. She evidently did not hear me, as the door was left unfastened, so that the robbers got back upstairs.

Sergeant Describes Pistol Fight Through Window and Chase of Robbers

Sergeant William O'Brien of the Magnolia Avenue Station, brother of Chief O'Brien, told the most connected story of the chase and capture of the robbers. He was on his way to the Magnolia station, and was changing cars at the Meramec and Virginia avenue transfer point, when he saw Patrolman Ward in front of the bank.

"He saw me," said Sgt. O'Brien, "and called to me to come on, that the bank was being robbed. "I drew my revolver and ran to the window. One of the robbers (Hunter) appeared at a side door of the bank, on Virginia avenue, and fired at me. I fired back, and he ducked into the bank.

"I got behind a telegraph pole and when the same man appeared at a window, I fired at him, and broke the glass in front of his face. I thought I had hit him, but he put his gun through the window and began shooting at me. He would shoot, then back down, and I would shoot back.

Hold-Up Men Seize Wagon. "He filled the pole full of bullets. When I had fired six times, my revolver was empty, and the robber (Hunter) knew this, for I heard him say to his pal, 'Get the Sergeant. His gun is empty.' "The robbers ran out of the house and east on Meramec street, with Ward and myself following.

"When they got to Compton avenue, near the Monks' Church (St. Anthony's), they turned south. A man came along in a car, and Ward and I jumped in and 'old him to drive us. The man in the car didn't like to get in range of the robbers, but he stuck with us, and let his car when we had to go into yards, and then picked us up again.

"When the robbers got to Knapstein place, which is a sort of common, they turned east again, two cars and jumped into a peddler's wagon which was standing in the street. They whipped up the horse, and drove two blocks, then tried to turn north. The wagon hit a telegraph pole and turned over.

House Entered by Trio. "The robbers jumped out and ran through a vacant lot. Ward and I got out of the car and pursued them. Here a man gave me three shells for a gun. We lost sight of the robbers, but a man pointed out a house and said: 'They are in the cellar.' I ran into the back yard, telling Ward to watch the front door.

"When I reached the rear door, a man in the next house told me they were in the cellar. Ward said he thought the men might have left, but that the cellar ought to be searched.

"I told Ward to go into the house and enter the basement by the inside door, while I went to the front door.

"I knew it was all over then. Directly I saw a piece of paper come up over the edge of the asphalt. It disappeared and reappeared several times. I knew the wind was not blowing the paper about. I thought the robber was trying to draw my fire.

Two Policemen Wounded. "Patrolman McVea came up then, and he had been cutting the grass in his yard. He was shot in the leg.

MUST ACCUMULATE $30,000 TO GET HIS SHARE OF $95,000

Requirement Made of George H. Boeck in His Father's Will Just Filed.

A copy of the will of Adam Boeck, for many years a real estate dealer here, who died Nov. 22 in Los Angeles, Cal., at the age of 80, was filed in the Probate Court today, disclosing that George H. Boeck of 4953 Parkview place, the only one of four children residing in St. Louis, will receive one-fifth of an estate valued at $95,000 whenever he produces satisfactory evidence that he has accumulated $30,000 in substantial assets in addition to his home.

In the will Boeck stated that it caused him much pain and sorrow to condition the bequest, as he considered George "the most clever, lovable, wholehearted, judicious and upright of all of my children," but he explained he was acquainted with George's habit of speculating, which, he said, he considered "repulsive, both both for the speculator and the victim."

"When he shall have accomplished this $30,000 stunt," the will reads, "he is to have his interest absolutely," but until that time he is to have only the interest.

One-fifth of the estate went to three grandchildren, to be held in trust until the youngest shall have reached the age of 28, though "they must not be indolent, lazy or dissipated." The remaining three-fifths goes to three other children.

yard when a neighbor told him to get his gun and help out. He came up and we both covered the asphalt. Meves was in his undershirt and trousers, but had his revolver with him. Then the patrol wagon came.

"When Bergmann heard the bell he stuck up one hand in token of surrender. I yelled to him to stick up both hands high, and to keep them up. He did so. We arrested him."

Patrolman Valleroy, who captured Hunter, said: "Sergeant Smith and I were walking on the street when the patrol wagon tore by without seeing us. We called up the station and were told about the robbery. We rushed to the scene and ran into the chase in which Sergt. O'Brien and Patrolman Ward were engaged."

"The robbers had taken shelter in the cellar where Ward was killed when we joined in the pursuit. Civilians directed us to the house. Smith told me to watch the front and he went to the back. I heard two shots, the ones which wounded Ward. Smith walked back to the rear. I crouched by the corner of the house, where I could watch both front and side and still have cover."

"I heard another shot and saw Smith fall. Then a man whom I learned later was Hunter, leaped down the front steps. I fired six shots at him as he struck the sidewalk. He stopped in the middle of the street and fired three shots at me. Then he ran west into a yard. My gun was empty and I was out of shells, but a civilian thrust an automatic pistol into my hand. I ran into a yard and out into the alley behind it. As I entered the alley Hunter came out of the yard he had run into. His hands were empty. I called to him to throw them up. He did so and came walking to me."

Mrs. H. Roy of 4628 Minnesota avenue, the house where, in the basement, Patrolman Ward was shot, and where the shots which wounded Sergt. Smith were fired from a window, said afterward that she had run out of the house, taking her youngest boy, and had taken refuge in a neighbor's home. She returned after the robbers had left the house, and knelt in prayer beside Sergt. Smith, who was carried into the house.

Smith was then conscious, Mrs. Roy said, and said he believed he was dying, and that he could not see. He asked her to pray for him, and she continued to do so until he was taken away. She did not see Ward.

13-Year-old Girl Wounded by Bullet During Revolver Fight.

An innocent victim of the volley of shots fired by the robbers and their pursuers was Mary Purcell, 13 years old, daughter of P. E. Purcell, auditor of disbursements of the Wabash Railroad. She was with her aunt, Mrs. George W. Wilson, wife of the vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., and happened to step out of St. Anthony's Church, while the battle was in progress. They tried to take refuge in a butcher shop across the street, but found the door barred, and were about to return to the church, when a bullet struck the girl in the upper part of her right arm, passing entirely through and just missing the bone.

She dropped to her knees and was picked up by her aunt and helped to a doctor's office, where she was given aid, and then sent to her home at 3647 Page avenue. Her physician said this morning that she soon would recover from the shock and hurt.

SILENT TRIBUTE TO DEAD HEROES PART OF HONOR ROLL SERVICE

Taps and Song Numbers Will Close Memorial Program at Forest Park Sunday.

"A one-minute silent standing memorial of reverence and thanks," prefaced by a few words by Col. George K. Hunter, commandant of Jefferson Barracks, will be offered in memory of the dead heroes of St. Louis and St. Louis County at the memorial service on Art Hill, Forest Park at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

It will be followed by taps and the singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the "Star-Spangled Banner," closing the one-hour program arranged by the Memorial Honor Roll Committee, the Missouri Historical Society and the War Camp Community Service.

The Jefferson Barracks Band is to play for the service. Seats in front of the grand stand will be reserved for the families of the dead soldiers, sailors and marines. The Home Guards have been asked to serve as ushers.

Mayor Kiel will open the service, and the invocation will be given by the Rev. C. M. Davis, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, who was chaplain with the Washington University Hospital Unit. Rabbi Harrison will speak on "Sacrifice," and the Rev. Thomas D. Kennedy, who was a chaplain with the A. E. F., will speak on "Service." Adjutant-General Harvey Clark also will speak.

Appeals have been issued by Lieutenant-Commander A. E. Brooks to sailors, by Lieut. L. C. McLaughlin to the marines and by Col. George Hunter to soldiers, to attend the service.

Former Judge Walter B. Douglas

of the Missouri Historical Society and Mrs. Ben Gray, chairman of the Honor Roll Society, will preside.

DERF 360 POINT SPARK PLUGS

Spark Plugs that Pay for Themselves

YES sir, actually save the price of themselves in the money they save you in gasoline. For Derf plugs give a hotter spark, a quicker explosion, accumulate less carbon, put more pep into a motor and do these things on less gas than any other plug on the market.

The secret of this is, that the Derf plug works
the most efficiently on a lean mixture—must have it, in fact.

Install a set in your car, then thin down your mixture and watch the results. You will get more miles per gallon of gasoline than you ever got before.
You will find an increase of power, and notice how smoothly the motor runs with never a miss fire.

You can't go wrong on Derf plugs. Simple to take apart, easy to clean, for the intense heat of the triangular-shaped spark burns off most of the carbon, reducing cleaning to a minimum. Get a set today and eliminate ignition troubles. $6.20 for four. $9.30 for six. At all dealers.

MESSAGES TO HINES DEMAND JOINT RATES

Shippers Here Would Start Goods to Southwest and Southeast by Water.

Telegrams demanding for St.
Louis shippers the advantage of joint river and rail rates that will permit them to use the Government River
Service to New Orleans to reach Texas points, and to Memphis to reach southeastern States on through bills of lading, were sent yesterday to Director General of Railroads Hines by Jack Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, James E.
Smith, president of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association, and E. C. Andrews, president of the Merchants' Exchange.

It was pointed out that if St. Louis is to furnish any great tonnage for the barge line, rates to territory St.
Louis shippers serve must be forthcoming. Schedules of rates for Texas have been on file with the Railroad Administration for months in the belief that they would be granted.
Recently it became known that Edward Chambers, director of traffic, had indicated the rates would not be approved until water terminals had been established at either Baton Rouge or Vicksburg.

Joint river and rail rates are in effect serving inland territory north of St. Louis, but inland territory contiguous to the southern terminus never has been opened. This constitutes discrimination against St.
Louis, the telegrams to Hines declared.

Hines was in St. Louis for two hours yesterday afternoon in conference with H. P. Bush, regional director of railroads.

DIAMONDS are a safe investment because

controlled the Union Electric Light and Power Co.

Priest defends his course.

During his testimony he made reference to a "number of pestiferous individuals in St. Louis who seemed to think that public utilities were legitimate prey for assault," though he added that he did not know that there were more of those sort of persons there than elsewhere.

At the forenoon session Priest continued his testimony in defense of himself from charges that he wasted the company's money in prolongation of the mill tax litigation. He said that he acted because he believed the case was acquiring too great a share of the company's earnings, when the stockholders had not received dividends for many years.

In response to a question from Edwin Caplan, attorney for John W. Seaman, plaintiff in the receivership suit, as to whether the stockholders' interests would not have been better served by dropping the technical litigation and rehabilitating United Railways securities, Priest said that he never had believed that the United States Supreme Court had passed upon the validity of the mill tax ordinance. The only matter decided in the Supreme Court decree, he said, was the question of the impairment of franchise contracts.

"Never Fought Just Claim." The United Railways, he said, never had defended a purely technical action and never had contested a claim it considered just.

The mill tax, he said, amounted to approximately 5 per cent on an investment of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. This, he said, he considered beyond reason when the city had no financial investment in the company, and the stockholders had received no dividends since 1910. It was greater, he said, than the company could bear in justice to its stockholders.

Priest said that he never had had any financial interest in the United Railways until recently, when he had purchased some Transit Co. bonds. He had always taken the position, he said, that while connected with the company as its counsel he should not have a financial interest which would prejudice him.

Questioned by Caplan.

Caplan asked if Priest had not opposed the mill tax after the United States Supreme Court had held it to be valid.

Judge Lamm interposed: Judge Priest always opposed the tax payment until he advised for the compromise, and I believe he still entertains some doubt about the law.

"I have no doubt about the law," Priest replied. "I am certain that it is invalid."

"Do you as a lawyer respect court decrees?" asked Caplan.

"At all times," replied Priest, "but there is a great difference between my assumption and Mr. Caplan's as to what the court decree in this matter was."

Priest's Testimony at Yesterday Afternoon's Session.

At yesterday afternoon's session, when asked to state briefly what the mill tax controversy was, Priest discussed for an hour and a half on his fight which had its inception in United States District Court, reaching the United States Supreme Court; of its course through another channel, beginning in Circuit Court, progressing to the Missouri Supreme Court and again working its way into the United States Supreme Court; of its renewal a third time on other issues in Circuit Court again, and its progress which was interrupted last January by the final confession by the company of its liability and its agreement to make the payments.

Into the discourse, Priest injected defiance, plainness and tremulousness—defiance still of the law, proclaiming its illegality; plainness as he told of the vast amount of work he did at a salary he considered beneath his ability and effort; tremulousness that reached the point of tears as he mentioned his chief impulse in his fight, the protection of the small investors.

Judge Lamm Interested.

He elicited varied degrees of attentiveness. Judge Lamm, who sat in the Missouri Supreme Court and voted for its decision fixing the law as valid and collectible, manifestly was interested, apparently both in the manner of presentation and the subject matter.

Priest's co-counsel in the defense of the suit sat on the edge of their chairs, their ears cupped in their hands, and listened.

In the outer circle were directors of the company, Breckinridge Jones, Murray Carleton, F. O. Waits and Alanson C. Brown, who appeared at 2 o'clock to be witnesses, and who were excused at 5 without having testified. They lounged in their chairs. At one point Jones, who is known to have caused Priest's plans for a friendly receivership to go awry, retired to the chambers of Judge Sanborn, adjoining the room in which the hearing is being held, to reappear, after a time, rubbing his eyes as if to chase the last vestige of a nap seemingly enjoyed.

To disinterested attorneys, the presence of a slight humility they had not before marked in Priest's court appearances caused their close attention.

Priest gave a version of the purposes of the passage of the mill tax ordinance which has not been generally assigned.

"The ordinance was passed in 1903," he said. "Mr. Waits (now receiver of the Railways) was Mayor, Mr. Bates (now counsel for the receiver) was City Counselor, Mr. Woerner (William F. Woerner, auditor of the mill tax law) was Associate City Counselor."

"At the time the public seemed much excited over the rapid movement of cars, lack of fenders and a lot of other stuff."

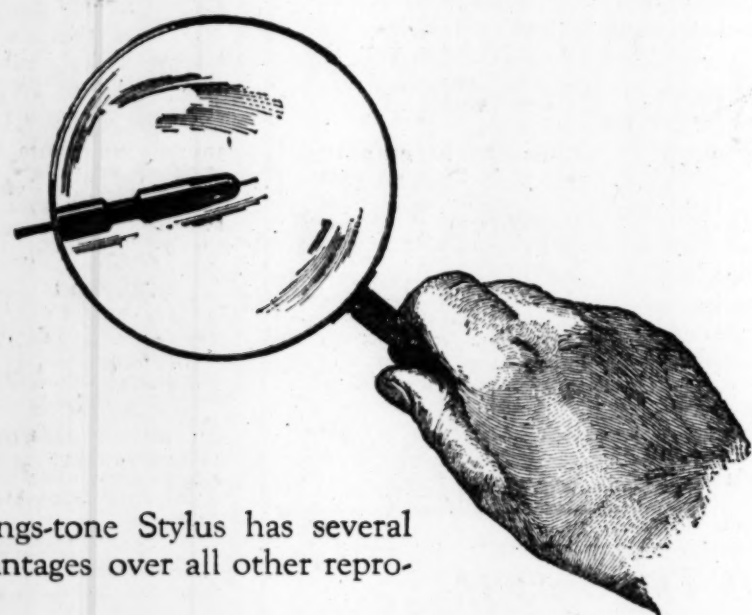

"An ordinance was passed, thinking that the public might be quieted by giving it a share in the earnings of the company. It did have the desired effect" (Priest did not state whose was the desire). "There was no effort to enforce it until later."

Concerning the willingness of the directors of the company to compromise the controversy in 1911, Priest said of the reasons for their willingness: "Though they considered the tax unjust and illegal, it had impaired the value of the company's securities and had discredited the company in the money markets of the world. The general 4s had dropped from 86 to 60. The Transits, also, had declined."

Victor Tungs-tone Stylus

-the perfect reproducing point for playing Victor Records

THE Victor Tungs-tone Stylus has several important advantages over all other reproducing points.

It not only provides the perfect point which is essential to the proper playing of every Victor Record, but it has besides the convenience of being semi-permanent—plays from 100 to 300 records without changing.

The tungsten point being cylindrical in shape always presents the same perfect point for every part of every record—for the last record as well as for the first. And the ductile tungsten being softer than the record wears slowly away and protects the record from the injury that a hard needle would inflict.

The Victor Tungs-tone Stylus is made in both full tone and half tone. It is changeable at will, thus retaining all the advantages of the Victor system of changeable needles, and enables you to get the utmost enjoyment from every record.

"I was about 20 pounds overweight and gaining rapidly when I decided to reduce. After investigating I found what I believed to be the safest and most reliable way to do this. It was so easy and simple it was just like play. Each morning I would stand in an open window and take as deep a breath as I could, hold it and count up to 10, then wipe it slowly, repeating this simple operation several times. I went down to the drug store and got a little bottle of fatty tissue. I took a few grains of fatty tissue, giving me the heart and absorbing the extra fat after meals and at bedtime. The effect of this treatment was almost marvellous. I ate everything I wanted, but each day I weighed myself. I saw an improvement, and in 20 days time I had lost over 15 pounds. I felt better than I had for months. My skin was firm and smooth and showed the pinkness of health. It is now six months since I used this method, and my weight is still normal, with no indication of gaining. I can honestly recommend this simple method to any fat woman or man who wants to reduce safely and without the use of tiresome exercises, appliances or dieting. It is not expensive, and the results are most pleasing. Fatty Tissue, Judge & Dolph, 1019 N. 1st St., St. Louis, Mo. and A. H. Medler can supply you with the genuine, phy-nola in a small cost."—B. ## WIDOW KILLED, 3 HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Death of Woman, 60, Is Thirty-Seventh Here Since Jan. 1 in Motor Car Accidents.

Mrs. Martha Sherwood, 60 years old, a widow, of 4984 Schollmeyer avenue, was killed, and three other persons were injured at 6 p. m. yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding collided with another automobile at Miami street and Nebraska avenue. This is the thirty-seventh death in St. Louis since Jan. 1, due to automobile accidents. In the corresponding period last year 41 persons were killed by automobiles.

The injured were Mrs. Lela Massey, 43 years old, and her two sons, Stanley, 3, and Donald, 5, also living at the Schollmeyer street address. All were thrown from the automobile. Mrs. Massey suffered concussion of the brain and an injury to her left eye, and her two sons were cut and bruised about the head and face. They were taken to the Lutheran Hospital by three soldiers who were passing in an Army automobile. Mrs. Sherwood was dead when they reached the hospital and a physician said she probably had been killed almost instantly.

The automobile in which Mrs. Sherwood and the Masseys were riding was driven by Albert Wilson, 27 years old, also of the Schollmeyer street address. The other automobile was driven by Albert J. Alt, of 3501 Alberta street, and is owned by Arthur J. Donnelly, an undertaker at Twenty-first and Wash streets. Alt was arrested and held under bond for the coroner.

BERGER HEARING ADJOURNED

Socialist Given Until July 7 to Meet Charges of Ineligibility.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 13.—After the Milwaukee Leader editorial, which led to the indictment of Victor Berger for violation of the espionage act, had been put into the record yesterday, the House Special Elections Committee investigating his right to a seat in the House, adjourned hearings until July 7, at Berger's request to give him opportunity to prepare evidence to meet charges of ineligibility. Henry F. Cochems, counsel for Berger, asked the committee to put immediately before the House his challenge to its jurisdiction.

With the editorials from the Leader, Harry M. McLogan, counsel for Joseph P. Carney, who is contesting the election, submitted the national Socialist party platform, partly drafted by Berger, and which showed, he contended, Berger had given aid and comfort to the enemy by attempting to obstruct the operation of the American machinery of war.

FUND TO PROTECT HOHENZOLLERN

Money Sent to Holland to "Cultivate" Dutch Press.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, June 13.—Letters exchanged between officials of the league for protection of William II,
one of which refers to a remittance of 20,000 marks (normally about $5000) to Holland for the purpose of printed by the Socialist Vorwaerts.

This sum, the newspaper remarks,
is not a considerable one, in view of the present state of valuations, but it fears that the league must spend considerably more than this on its propaganda "in view of the determination of the Entente to have the ex-Emperor surrendered."

REDDISH IN CELL WHILE ATTORNEYS STRIVE FOR BAIL

Doctor Again Locked Up,
but Lawyers Seek Consent
of Circuit Judge to Release Accused Man.

ROUTINE DEFENSE IS OFFERED AT HEARING

Counsel Calls Case as Much of Mystery as Ever, but Prosecutor Vigorously Denounces Accused Man.

Dr. Horace Reddish, accused of having murdered his father, Stephen M. Reddish, and the latter's aged negro housekeeper, Rachel Cisco, the night of April 25 last, is again in his cell at the Jerseyville jail, awaiting the results of efforts begun today by his attorneys to obtain his release on bond. Reddish was ordered held for the September grand jury yesterday following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Arthur Thatcher at the Jerseyville Courtroom.

Under the Illinois law Reddish cannot be admitted to bail without the assent of a Circuit Court Judge and, accordingly, his attorneys this morning endeavored to obtain the consent of Circuit Judge Norman L.
Jones of Carleton, Ill.

In ordering Dr. Reddish held for the grand jury Justice Thatcher said: "I have considered the evidence carefully and have endeavored to eliminate much that I considered immaterial. Certain facts, however, have been presented, which, I believe, warrant the holding over of the prisoner to await the action of the September grand jury."

Offer Only Routine Defense.
Only a routine defense was offered by Dr. Reddish's attorneys, who did not place the defendant on the witness stand as had been promised in an announcement made several days ago. Several witnesses were introduced and their testimony indicated that Stephen M. Reddish was seen alive on the streets of Jerseyville
April 26, the day following the night on which he is thought to have been murdered.

Wyatt Watts, a Jerseyville policeman, testifying for the defense, stated that he saw the elder Reddish on April 26 and fixed the date by recalling that an army tank had appeared in Jerseyville on that day in connection with a Victory loan demonstration. The elder Reddish inquired as to the whereabouts of Herman Fresh, a thrasher, according to Watts.

Skill a Mystery, Attorney Says.
In summing up the evidence Gerard G. Reardon, Reddish's attorney, declared nothing had been introduced to involve the prisoner and that the murder was just as much a mystery now as it was when first discovered.

A vigorous denunciation of Reddish, however, featured the statement of State's Attorney Hamilton, who pictured the defendant as the "son of a rich father running all over town trying to borrow money, which, if needed for a legitimate purpose, could have been obtained from his brother."

Hamilton declared that Reddish had planned the crime during the absence of members of his family in Texas a month preceding the finding of the bodies in the Reddish home at Jerseyville. He attacked the prisoner's alibi that he was in St.
Louis the night of the supposed killing.

"Board a While Longer."
After the conclusion of the hearing yesterday Reddish was turned over to Sheriff Catt, to whom he remarked: "Oh, well! I guess I'll have to board with you a little while longer."

When seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter last night, Dr. Reddish replied: "I don't see how they can find a fair decision. It was based on colored,
flimsy evidence."

He was asked what his plans for the immediate future were and he replied: "I don't know what I'll do.
I will have to confer with my attorneys."

He said he did not care for any notority, and terminated the interview.

State's Attorney Hamilton yesterday intimated that other arrests would be made in connection with the murder within a short time.
Other officials engaged in the prosecution said that no additional warrants had as yet been issued.

SUGGESTS 'SINISTER' PLAN BEHIND U. R. INTERVENTION PLEA

Answer Prepared by Priest to Leed and Laughlin Petitions Hints at Scheme to Wreck Value of Securities.

PROBABLY WILL BE FILED TOMORROW

"Scurrilous Allegations" Referred to as a Method of Forcing Foreclosure to Gain Possession of Property.

The existence of a scheme of holders of the $30,000,000 of general 4 per cent bonds of the United Railways to wreck the value of securities through "scurrilous allegations," so that they could force a foreclosure and gain possession of the property for approximately that amount, is suggested in an answer prepared by Henry S. Priest to the intervening petitions of the Leed Mining Co. and Elmer A. and Robert T. Laughlin, and which probably will be filed tomorrow.

The answer to the Leed petition, and to which the answer of the Laughlin petition is similar, sets out that "the allegations are so indefinite, so scurrilous in character, so false in fact as to compel belief that that intervention is not for the purpose of redressing wrong alleged in the Seaman bill, but to accomplish some undisclosed and sinister purpose."

"Sinister Purpose" Alleged.

As a "sinister purpose" the answer alleges that depression of the value of the securities of the United Railways with an injury to its credit might enable the Leed company to force a default on some first mortgage bonds so that the intervenors would be justified in their claim of maturity of all bonds under the mortgage, bring about a foreclosure and enable the Leed company "and its confederates" to get possession of the property at much less than the par value of the bonds, thus depriving the junior security holders of their equity.

This plan, it is alleged, would defeat the city's claim for license taxes under the mill tax ordinance.

Right to Intervene Contested.

The right of the Leed company to intervene as a bondholder is contested, the answer setting out that the proper party to apply for relief is the trustee under the mortgage and not the bondholders.

A demand is made for proof of the identity of the Leed company, which is understood to be largely under the control of the John T. Milliken estate.

The charge of insolvency is denied, the allegation being made that that company could have paid its debts and could have borrowed money to pay its indebtedness to the War Finance Corporation had it not been for the "scandalous allegations" of the Seaman bill.

In connection with the mill tax, the answer states that the mill tax had not been finally adjudicated, and that there were several issues involved in cases in the Circuit Court which had not been passed upon by the United States Supreme Court. Counsel for the company, it is alleged, believed there was probability of the company being successful in further litigation over the city's claim.

J. LIONBERGER DAVIS HELD UP

 J.  The youths, who were in another automobile, fired two shots and ordered Davis' chauffeur to stop. They boarded the machine and after striking the chauffeur on the head with a revolver, robbed Davis. He was able to save his watch by dropping it behind the cushion of his seat. The robbers escaped in their automobile. Davis' chauffeur was not badly injured.

DOCTORS' VIEWS ON LIGHT BEER

Opposite Opinions Expressed at Medical Association Convention.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—Opposite views regarding the effect of beer and wines of low alcoholic content on the human system were expressed yesterday by speakers before the American Medical Association in annual convention here.

Dr. Lambert Ott of Philadelphia said such drinks were healthful and their sale under Government supervision should be permitted. Dr. Bernard Faulstich of Chicago said: "If the alcohol content of beer were reduced instead of complete prohibition, these beer drinkers would drink twice as much as formerly, with the same disastrous effects." The next convention will be held at New Orleans.

ADMIRAL KOLCHAK GETS SUPPORT OF COUNCIL OF FOUR

Understanding Is That All-Russian Government at Omsk Is to Be Supplied With Munitions.

ANSWER TO LEADER'S NOTE IS PUBLISHED

Notes Recite Difficulties of Dealing With Soviets and Require Establishment of a Democracy.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 13.—The reply sent by the Council of Four yesterday to the note of Admiral Kolchak extends to him and his associates in the All-Russian Government at Omsk the support set forth in the original letter of the Council to Kolchak. This is interpreted here as meaning de facto recognition of the Omsk Government.

The text follows:

"The allied and associated Powers wish to acknowledge the receipt of Admiral Kolchak's reply to their note of May 26. They welcome the terms of that reply, which seem to them to be in substantial agreement with the propositions they had made and to contain satisfactory assurances for the freedom, self-government and peace of the Russian people and their neighbors.

"They are, therefore, willing to extend to Admiral Kolchak and his associates the support set forth in their original letter.

"LLOYD GEORGE, WILSON, CLEMENCEAU, MAKING."

It is understood the support referred to involves the furnishing of munitions and supplies for Admiral Kolchak's campaign.

A Havas dispatch from Paris also includes the name of Premier Orlando among the signers.

Text of Original Note.

Following is the text of the dispatch originally sent to Admiral Kolchak:

"PARIS, May 26, 1919.

"The allied and associated Powers feel that the time has come when it is necessary for them once more to make clear the policy they propose to pursue in regard to Russia.

"It has always been a cardinal axiom of the allied and associated Powers to avoid interference in the internal affairs of Russia. Their original intervention was made for the sole purpose of assisting those elements in Russia which wanted to continue the struggle against German autocracy and to free their country from German rule, and in order to rescue the Czech-Slovaks from the danger of annihilation at the hands of the Bolshevik forces.

"Since the signature of the armistice on Nov. 11, 1918, they have sent forces in various parts of Russia. Munitions and supplies have been sent to assist those associated with them at a very considerable cost.

"No sooner, however, did the peace conference assemble than they endeavored to bring peace and order to Russia by inviting representatives of all the warring Governments within Russia to meet them in the hope that they might be able to arrange a permanent solution of the Russian problem.

Proposal Broke Down.

"This proposal and a latter offer to settle the dispute among the suffering millions of Russia broke down through the refusal of the Soviet Government to accept the fundamental condition of suspending hostilities while negotiations for the work of relief was proceeding.

"Some of the allied and associated Governments are being pressed to withdraw their troops and to incur no further expenses in Russia on the ground that continuing the intervention shows no prospects of producing an early settlement. They are prepared to continue their assistance on the lines laid down above, provided they are satisfied that it will really help the Russian people to liberty, self-government and peace.

"The allied and associated Governments now wish to declare formally that the object of their policy is to restore peace within Russia by enabling the Russian people to resume control of their own affairs through the instrumentality of a freely elected constituent assembly and to restore peace along its frontiers by arranging for the settlement of disputes in regard to the boundaries of the Russian state and its relations with its neighbors through the peaceful arbitration of the league of nations.

"They are convinced by their experiences of the last 12 months that it is not possible to obtain these ends by dealing with the Soviet Government of Moscow. They are, therefore, disposed to assist the Government of Admiral Kolchak and his associates with munitions, supplies and food to establish themselves as the Government of all Russia, provided they receive from them definite guarantees that their policy has the same object in view as that of the allied and associated Powers.

With this object they would ask Admiral Kolchak and associates whether they would agree to the following as conditions upon which they would accept continued assistance from the allied and associated Powers:

Require Constituent Assembly.

"In the first place, that as soon as they reach Moscow they will summon a constituent assembly elected by a free, secret and democratic franchise as the supreme legislature for Russia to which the Government of Russia must be responsible, or, if at that time order is not sufficiently restored, they will summon the constituent assembly elected in 1917 to sit until such time as new elections are possible.

"Secondly, that throughout the areas which they at present control, they will permit free elections in the normal course for all local and legally constituted assemblies, such as municipalities, zemstvos, etc.

"Thirdly, that they will countenance no attempt to revise the special privilege of any class or order in Russia.

"The allied and associated Powers have noted with satisfaction that the solemn declaration made by Admiral Kolchak and his associates that they have no intention of restoring the former land system.

They feel that the principles to be followed in the solution of this and other internal questions must be left to the free decision of the Russian (Continued on Next Page.)

USE OF NARCOTICS INCREASES
DESPITE GOVERNMENT EFFORTS

Investigating Committee Estimates
That There Are More Than a Million Addicts in U.S.
By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 13.—Nationwide use of narcotic drugs for other than legitimate medical purposes steadily increasing despite vigorous efforts in the last four years in the enforcement of the Federal law, was discovered by the Treasury's special investigating committee, which submitted a final report today.

The number of drug addicts in the United States was estimated to be in excess of 1,000,000. The committee found that imports of opium into the United States have increased twice as fast as the growth in population.
Imports of coca leaves, from which cocaine is made, also have grown steadily.

Enough opium is consumed in the United States every year, the report stated, to give every man, woman and child 36 doses. A minimum estimate of the value of habit-forming drugs used was given at $20,000,- 000.

"The consensus of opinion appears to be that the number of addicts will increase as soon as the prohibition laws are enforced," said the report.
"These opinions are based for the most part on the theory that drinkers will seek a substitute for alcohol. This opinion apparently receives some support from investigations made in some Southern states.

The Committee of Investigation was composed of Representative
Henry T. Rainey, chairman; Prof.
Reid Hunt of Harvard University; B.
C. Keith, former Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue; and A. G.
Du Mezo of the Public Health Service.

A. F. L. GIVES MORAL SUPPORT TO AN ELECTRICAL STRIKE
Action Taken, However, to Avert Walkout Which Would Hurt Telephone Operation.
By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—A strike designed to cripple the telephone systems of the country will begin Monday, with the full moral support of the American Federation of Labor, unless a satisfactory working agreement is reached between Postmaster-General Burleson and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which numbers among its members the bulk of the union telephone operators in the United States.

By unanimous vote the reconstruction convention of the federation adopted a resolution yesterday giving its support to the strike, and providing that Samuel Gompers, president, should appoint a committee to co-operate with a committee of Electrical Workers, the latter committee to take up grievances with the Postoffice authorities at Washington, in the hope of averting the walkout.

During the debate Postmaster-General Burleson was termed a "tyrannical" official by delegates, who thought any attempt to obtain "justice" from the postal executive could be utterly futile. In this connection reference was made to a resolution which will come before the convention later in which, if it is passed, President Wilson will be requested to remove Burleson.

Sponsors of the strike support resolutions accused Burleson during the debate, of turning back operating control of the wire systems of the country as a means of "getting out from under."

E. G. LEWIS WIRES THREAT

E. G. Lewis, president of the Regents Mercantile Corporation of Atascadero, Cal., has wired his brother, John Lewis of St. Louis, that unless the suit to enjoin him from leasing the "Woman's Magazine Buildings" in University is dismissed he will wreck the property and ship the material to Atascadero.

Clayton recently handed down a decision that because of building restrictions, the property could not be used for any other purpose than the purposes of the magazine. It had been rented to the Orcutt Packing.

Storage and Moving Co., which has been occupying it for some time.

No Charge for Alterations*TELLS OF PLANTING OF 75,000 MINES IN SEA

Navy Lieutenant Describes Blockade That Stopped Submarine Attacks Last Fall.

Seventy-five thousand anti-submarine mines were "planted in a strip 260 miles long by 25 miles wide, between June, 1918, and October, 1918. This was disclosed by Lieut. Henry H. Fox, U. S. Navy, in an address before the Kiwanis Club at luncheon at the American Annex yesterday.

Lieut. Fox, a St. Louisan, and a graduate of Annapolis Naval Academy in 1909, said that the British Admiralty credits the signing of the armistice to the failure of the submarine campaign, a direct result of the network of mines stretched around Germany by the United States and British navies.

The United States mine layers achieved the impossible, Fox said, in spite of predictions of failure from very early on. The largest mine field planted before the navy undertook to mine the North Sea with 75,000 mines, he said, was a field of 5000 mines in the British Channel. This was two miles wide and not more than 50 miles long.

Know Little of "Silent Navy."

"We are familiar with what the army did, but we know little of the work of the 'silent navy,' Fox declared. 'Our officers patrolled night and day for nearly two years, often without seeing a sub throughout their service. Others saw two or three every week. We proposed to mine the North Sea. They laughed at us. In the meantime the submarine problem became worse. Other methods were tried but finally, in desperation, they told us to go ahead.'

"American invention had produced a superior mine, worked electro-magnetically. This mine did not have to be touched by a submarine, but went off whenever one of the U-Boats approached within a certain radius. Five hundred manufacturers were set to work making mine parts. The mines carried 300 pounds of TNT each. Twenty-four vessels served our overseas bases. One of these vessels, the Lady Moore, was the only loss we experienced during the war.

"In Scotland the navy assembled the mines and placed them on mine layers. These vessels were equipped with tracks to slide the explosive globes into the water, with their anchors. We had to bottle up the German empire. To do this our mine-laying squadron planted 6000 mines every four hours, when the weather permitted us to go out.

Sinkings Stopped Completely.
"Early in June, 1918, when we began to plant, submarine sinkings slumped. By October, when our field was complete, they had stopped entirely. We are credited with 18 U-boats officially and Germany admits losing 23 in our territory.

"Our work was done without a single casualty through carelessness. The mines were 'staggered' under water and were not reached by surface vessels. The British Intelligence Service gave us splendid aid, as did the British mine layers and destroyer fleet."

Lieut. Fox urged every Kiwanis member to talk in favor of a big navy. "It is the best insurance in the world," he said.

The club pledged support to the Boy Scouts' campaign for $100,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 13.—When the case of Jackson Johnson, millionaire St. Louis shoe manufacturer, who is suing Prof. Fila Volpi, art expert of Florence, Italy, for $11,800, was called yesterday in the Supreme Court, Justice Greenbaum agreed to postpone trial of the case until Oct. 6, despite protests by counsel for the plaintiff.

Prof. Volpi's attorney informed the Court that despite his sincere efforts to get to America for an early trial, Volpi had found it impossible to obtain passage. He announced the willingness of the art expert to take the stand and defend the action. As the present term of the Court will close at the end of the month, Justice Greenbaum found it necessary to place the case for early consideration at the October term.

Johnson, who originally brought suit through a dummy plaintiff in order to avoid, as he admitted, being glibed as a "fool" because of his purchases, bought from Volpi at an auction sale at the American Art Galleries, a painting purporting to be "Augustin Lomellini" by Van Dyck, and another purporting to be "Caravaggio De Mallery" by Rubens. Both, he avers have proved to be spurious.

DENVER, Colo., June 13.—Victor E. Secretary of State James R. Nolan announced that he would follow the opinion and refuse to permit filing of the petition.

SAYS HIGH HEELS PUT CORNS ON TOES

Tells women how to dry up a corn so it lifts out without pain.

Modern high-heeled footwear buckles the toes and produces corns, and many of the thousands of hospital cases of infection and lockjaw are the result of woman's suicidal habit of trying to cut away these painful pests.

A little corn there can be obtained at any pharmacy a quarter of an ounce of a drug called freezone, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every harsh soft corn or callus without the slightest danger or inconvenience.

A few drops applied directly upon the tender, aching corn stops the soreness and shortly the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out. It is a sticky substance, which dries the moment it is applied, and thousands of men and women use it because the corn shrivels up and comes out without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Cut this out and try it if your corns bother you.—ADV.

PLAN TO END WIRE STRIKE OFFERED TO POSTAL CO.

Men Would Call Off Walk-out Against Mackay Lines on Agreement to Adjust Wages When U. S. Control Ends.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 13.—First steps toward a settlement of the nation-wide strike of commercial telegraphers were taken today when officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America submitted to the Postal Telegraph Co. conditions upon which an agreement could be based. The conditions, in effect, provide that the strike would be called off so far as the Postal is concerned if that company will agree to wage adjustments immediately after full control has been given to the company by the wire administration. The conditions which are understood to have been requested by the Postal Company, were forwarded to New York officials of the company today, according to reports here.

Companies Cannot Sign. Union officials said that an order issued sometime ago by Postmaster-General Burleson, and still in effect, prohibits the Commercial Telegraph Companies from signing wage contracts with their operators. For this reason, it was stated, the conditions were so drawn as to provide that actual wage agreements would not be entered into, nor other concessions granted until after the Government had discontinued all control.

Picketing committees in scores of towns and cities today set to work urging telephone girls to join the strike. Many of the girls already are affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which has called a strike for next Monday that will affect 130,000 workers, according to strike leaders. Moral support to the strikers will be given by the American Train Dispatchers' Association, which has issued a statement today by its president, J. G. Luhrs.

The Postal Telegraph Co. reported that in Chicago the operating force was "about 70 per cent normal."

The Western Union here reported 51 strikers in the traffic department, only 18 of whom are Morse operators. Strike leaders disputed these claims. Both companies said practically all their messengers were on strike.

The strikers began distribution of posters reading: "We fought autocracy over there. Now we're fighting autocracy over here." At the opening of the third day of the strike, leaders of the union today professed to be encouraged, asserting that additional men had gone out during the last 24 hours and that more would follow the ranks of the strikers during the day.

On the other hand officials of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies said a number of men in various parts of the country who left their keys on the first day of the strike had returned to work and that only slight inconvenience had been caused by the walkout.

Union officials said the order issued yesterday to members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers to refuse to handle commercial business of the two big telegraph companies after tomorrow morning would be of great advantage in their fight to force recognition of the right for collective bargaining, improved working conditions and wage increases. Further encouragement was found by the union officials in the order for a strike of more than 100,000 electrical workers next Monday unless a settlement of their differences is reached.

It also was announced that telegraphers employed by brokers in the West would hold meetings to decide whether they would go out in sympathy with the commercial men. S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, who is directing the strike from headquarters here, stated, however, that the broker men would be called out only if it became apparent that such action was necessary to win the strike.

Commercial telegraph business, particularly between the larger cities, is being handled on practically a normal basis, according to reports to the commercial companies here.

NO CHANGE SHOWN HERE IN TELEGRAPH STRIKE SITUATION

The local situation today, the third day of the strike of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, appeared to be the same as on the two preceding days.

G. R. Alger, chief operator of the Western Union, said that none of the operators employed in the St. Louis branch of the company had quit work. W. W. Morrison, local manager of the Postal Telegraph Co., said that no other operators of his company here had joined the six men who walked out Monday.

The order issued by E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers to the 80,000 members of that organization to discontinue work at 6 a. m. tomorrow the handling of commercial business of the two telegraph companies will have no effect on the Postal Company, according to Morrison, and will affect less than 5 per cent of the Western Union's commercial business, Alger said.

Alger said that out of over 2,000 messages handled by the Western Union last month about 170,000 were to and from small towns where the company does business exclusively through railroad station telegraphers. He expressed doubt as to whether the order issued by Manion would include the handling of Western Union messages that are provided for in contracts between the telegraph and railroad companies. He said he believed it applied only to extra work done by railroad telegraphers in the handling of messages in small towns during hours in which the regular telegraph branch office are closed.

Railroad Operators' President Explains Strike Position.

By the Associated Press. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, last night explained that the strike called by him was not "a complete strike," but simply one against all commercial business of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

"Twenty thousand railroad operators," said Manion, "have for a long time been anxious to get rid of the Western Union business they were handling. While they have been dispatching trains and handling railroad business the Western Union has required them to handle commercial business, for which they received no pay whatever."

BITRO-PHOSPHATE BEST THING FOR THIN PEOPLE

Women Need It to Bring Pink Glow to Health to Pale Cheeks and Forehead Tell-Tale Lines of Age. Men Need It to Make Strong, Vigorous Bodies and Steady Nerves.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and reducing girth, hollows and angles by the soft curving lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among

The thin, scrawny girl becomes convinced that Bitro-Phosphate is what she needs.

Drugs as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive, and is sold by Judge & Delph, Enders Drug Stores, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis and most all drug stores under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance of the thin and weak; frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight and strength, respectively, through the administration

Our soldiers always pick out the plump, rosy-cheeked girl.

Spasmodic, organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years. Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing numbers.

At the seaside too, the plump well-rounded figure is most admired.

claim "Who's Who" says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Joseph D. Harrigan, former Visiting Physician to Northeastern University, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, and who have no energy, take natural, unadulterated Bitro-Phosphate and you will soon have some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy; strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate found abundantly in the National Standard Dietetic Laboratory as being an excellent food and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia.

The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the highest scientific and test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine, and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unassailable for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its tendency to increase weight, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Here's one big way to boost St. Louis

We know what the morale of an army is. On it hangs victory or defeat.

The people of our great cities are like armies. With high morale they work and build cities that shine before the world. When morale is allowed to break, they become stagnant and indifferent or turn to the fury of revolutions such as have laid waste so many wonderful cities of the Old World.

We took no chances with the morale of our troops in Europe. For one thing, the Salvation Army was taken along to minister to men—to cheer them, to comfort them, to feed them. And one of the great discoveries of the war was the amazing work of this army of human service.

Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army in America, said this of the exploit: "The Salvation Army upon the battlefields of Europe has but worked along the same lines as in the great cities of the nations. We are, with our every gift to serve, close up to those in need; and so, as Lieut.-Colonel Roosevelt puts it, 'Whatever the lot of men, the Salvation Army is found with them.'"

For thirty years the Salvation Army has been ministering to men and women in St. Louis who were down. It has been timid about telling of its work. Few have known of its real service. The story now is being told only because citizens outside of the army realize its value as a civic force.

Down on Broadway is a little hotel where a fellow who has spent his last red cent can find a comfortable place to sleep.

In St. Louis is a Salvation Army rescue home for girls betrayed and lost.

These are but high lights of the army's great work. It has been done largely with the dimes and nickels and pennies that the tambourine girl collected.

We have discovered the Salvation Army in St. Louis even, though it took the war to do it; and we, as a city, are adopting it as as a selfish investment. In this After-War Work campaign to raise $13,000,000 in the United States, St. Louis has been allotted $300,000. Every cent of this money will be spent in St. Louis, that the Salvation Army may minister better to men and women and children in need.

St. Louis' quota is capital that will pay dividends in character—in a better community.

Of the total, $250,000 will go to a building and plant for a workingmen's club and Salvation Army headquarters.

A man will be given a clean and comfortable private room there for thirty-five cents a night.

Other features will be a large club room for men with game tables and similar amusements; headquarters offices for all Salvation Army departments; two auditoriums; a band room and a club room for industrial classes for women and children; a gymnasium; free shower baths, and a doughnut room.

A sum of $15,000 will be devoted as part cost of a new building for the St. Louis Rescue Home for girls and children and for the upkeep of this home.

To support three St. Louis corps, with ten Salvation Army officers, who will visit the poor and investigate cases of poverty and suffering, and for three club rooms to serve doughnuts and refreshments as substitutes for saloons, $15,000.

Officers' contingent fund, $3000; renewal of hotel equipment, $2000; support and extension of St. Louis headquarters, $5000; the relief of St. Louis poor and the equipment of relief center and free dispensary, $10,000.

That makes the total of $300,000. Every item is indispensable to the upbuilding of St. Louis.

The Salvation Army needs your subscription because St. Louis needs the Salvation Army. As a citizen you need it. Mail your check to Arthur F. Barnes, Treas., Mercantile Trust Company.

WOMEN TELL OF VILLA RAID ON COLUMBUS AT LIBEL TRIAL

Witnesses in Ford Suit Against Chicago Tribune Tell of Losing Their Husbands.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., June 12.—The story of the looting of the Commercial Hotel at Columbus, N. M., March 9, 1916, by Mexican bandits, said to have been members of the Villa band, was retold on the witness stand here today, in the Henry Ford-Chicago Daily Tribune libel suit, by Mrs. W. T. Ritchie, whose husband, proprietor of the hotel, was killed by the marauders.

There were 10 or 12 guests in the hotel, "My husband," she said, "advised against resistance. He went downstairs and that was the last I ever saw of him. His body was consumed in the flames which, after the fire had been looted, destroyed the hotel. The only keepsake I ever found was one sock."

Mrs. Ritchie said women guests escaped out the back way and were saved from pursuit by the arrival of some of Col. Stoen's soldiers. Mrs. Susan A. Moore, whose husband was shot and mutilated before her eyes in the Columbus raid, said on the stand that there were about 25 raiders. After her husband fell, she tried to escape. She took off her rings for the Mexicans herself, but suddenly uttered a piercing scream, startling the bandits so that she had a chance to rush for the back door.

"As I sped across the back yard and over a fence," she said, "the Mexicans fired at me, but in the darkness managed to hit me only in the leg. I fell as I got over the fence. I pulled a cloak over my head and lost consciousness. The first words I heard when I recovered were, 'My God, it's a woman.' They were American troops. The Mexicans were gone."

ST. LOUIS NEGRO'S BRIDE HEIRSS OF MME. WALKER'S MILLION

Mrs. Lella Walker Robinson, Married a Week Ago, Will Manage Mother's Hair Oil Business.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The title of "richest negro woman in the United States," which was held for many years by "Mme." C. J. Walker, manufacturer of a hair oilment widely popular with her race, will pass to her only daughter, Mrs. Lella Walker Robinson, under the terms of her will, which it was learned here has been filed in Indianapolis.

With the exception of the benefit funds of $100,000 each for the benefit of charities, distant relatives and friends, "Mme." Walker left her entire estate to her daughter. Her estate is estimated at $1,000,000. Among the charitable bequests was one for the establishment of an industrial and mission school in Africa.

Mrs. Lella Walker Robinson was married last Friday morning in New York to Dr. Wiley M. Wilson, formerly of St. Louis, and who has just completed his medical studies at the Howard University, Washington, D. C. He is 35 years old and she is 30. They will tour the west for three months and then will make their home in New York. She has been elected president of the late "Mme." Walker's hair oil business and will manage the business herself.

On Sunday, June 22, there will be a memorial service for "Mme." Walker at St. Paul's A. M. E. Church, Leffingwell and Lawton avenues, in which all the negro churches will join.

DETROIT CAR STRIKE AT END

Men Win Increase in Pay, With 65 Cents Maximum.

DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—Detroit's traction tie-up, which became effective last Saturday night, came to an end yesterday when the striking car men of the Detroit United Railways voted to accept an offer by the company of wage increases from 43, 46 and 48 to 50, 55 and 65 cents an hour. The men had asked for an increase of 27 cents.

The car men accepted the company's compromise offer after an all-day debate, a large number of the strikers advocating a stand for the original demands. W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, prevailed upon them to accept the offer, which, he said, constituted the highest wage paid to street car men in the United States.

The men will receive 50 cents an hour for the first three months of service, 55 cents for the next nine months, and 65 cents after a year's employment.

Not Accidentally Good, but Made Good--Always!

And it was by no accident that we made up our minds to sell Star Tires to our friends. Friends, that's right, because the merchandise we sell must make friends or we don't want to sell it.

Right there you've got the reason why we not only sell but recommend—heartily—Star Tires.

More Than Selling Tires--
Selling Service and Satisfaction

That's our obligation to you—not merely the sale of a tire, but the selection of a tire that you would choose yourself if you went to Akron, as we did, to see them being made.

And here are the real, hard reasons why we sincerely recommend STAR hand-made, Extra Ply TIRES to you.

They are made by Akron's Master Tire Builders, who know from long experience how to build tires that will "stand up." Star Tires have liberal quantities of the highest quality materials—placed to give greater mileage and riding comfort. The tread is thick, tough rubber accurately compounded to resist wear—and they do! We know from our own experience and that of scores of automobilists who use Star Tires here in the city.

If it's a Cord Tire you want, we have a tire that is second to none—it's 'way out in front.

STAR CORD TIRES

The tire for the man who wants to make a wise investment in the first place, to save in the long run. Each cord is isolated in extra heavy Pure Rubber—to eliminate friction; and the tread, of the very best materials, is lively and much heavier than other manufacturers think necessary. The tread is a real non-skid—a noiseless vacuum.

But let us show Star Tires and let them prove to you what we know. Stop—when next you are our way.

FAREWELL TENDERED TEACHER WHO HAD SERVED 40 YEARS

Mrs. Mary E. Robinson Had Been Principal of Baden School 39 Years Before Resigning.

Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, 8412 Church road, the oldest public school teacher in the city in point of service, was tendered a farewell at the graduation exercises of the Baden School last night, following the announcement that she had resigned as principal of the school, which position she has held for the last 31 years. She had been at the Baden School for 40 years.

Members of the School Patrons Association, representatives of the Board of Education and several hundred pupils and former pupils participated in the reception to Mrs. Robinson. Assistant Superintendent of Schools Rathbun presented her with a basket of flowers in which was concealed $100, the gift of teachers and patrons of the school.

CHURCHMEN ELECT ST. LOUISAN

L. W. McCreary is Named President by State Christian Convention.

By the Associated Press.

CARTHAGE, Mo., June 13.—Resolutions protesting President Wilson's recommendation for partial repeal of war-time prohibition were passed at the closing session of the Missouri Christian Church convention here yesterday, and officers of the conference were directed to send a message to the President expressing the uncompromising disapproval of the conference.

"We have been grieved and disappointed by the uncalculated concessions of President Wilson to the forces of intemperance," the resolutions read, and they contain the further suggestion that upon the President's return to America he "acquaint himself with the true sentiment of law-abiding citizens, whose ideals he undertakes to interpret."

The resolutions also ask Congress not to repeal the prohibition law.

Another resolution endorsing the league of nations was amended to endorse "a league of nations to prevent war."

L. W. McCreary of St. Louis was elected president of the organization.

Brazilian Editors Criticize France.

By the Associated Press.

RIO JANIERO, June 13.—All newspapers here have made editorial attacks upon France because of the receipt of reports indicating that France is opposing the keeping of former German steamers by Brazil. Newspapers which seldom comment editorially have long, bitter articles on the subject. The gist of the editorial comment is that France is being disclosed as a false friend if reports are true.

RUTH LAW'S RECORD BROKEN

PARIS, June 13.—Announcement is made that Baroness de la Roche, a widely known French aviatrix, driving the Small biplane in which the late Jules Vedrines landed on the roof of a department store here last January, has reached an altitude of 15,700 feet. Reports of her flight have been checked by a commission of the French Aero Club.

The level she reached is over a thousand feet higher than the best record made by Ruth Law, who has heretofore held the woman's altitude title.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predator, plutocrat or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

How Men Die in Battle.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems unfortunate that the information the newspapers receive from men who have returned after participating in the war should, in so many cases, be altogether unreliable. The Post-Dispatch for Sunday, June 8 furnished a good example in the statements made by "Copy Pat" Smith. He says, "On the Somme, of 700 bodies of our men killed in battle, some 650 were found in a half-kneeling posture. I have never heard any medical man say that this was the result of any reflex action of the muscles. I know from my own physical experience as a wounded man, and from the words of the dying men to whom I have listened, that these men died in the act of prayer. As the life passes, the body relaxes to the posture in which so many bodies are found, the crouching, half-kneeling position. The artist paints men dying on the battlefield, lying on their backs, but the more common attitude is the one I have described."

Now I've seen a number of men lying dead on the battlefield—but, unless the Americans and Germans die in an altogether different manner from the British, I would have needed an extremely vivid imagination to have seen them lying in a "half-kneeling posture." A dead (or even wounded) soldier in such a posture was very exceptional. I rather doubt that the majority of soldiers died in "the act of prayer," but whether they did or not, practically none of them died in any such position as Capt. Smith says they did. This is the only one of hundreds of such examples I've observed. At the front, several times received papers which published letters from men that had been in my own outfit telling of impossible happenings that were purely imaginative. During the fighting there used to be a common saying among some of the men in my company something like this: "Wait, 'till this army gets back, then's when the wild tales will really get going." A statement made by a man who has been "over there" is not necessarily true in fact, the tendency is to greatly exaggerate, since this is so easily done without suspicion among people who were 3000 to 6000 miles away. As a result I should advise no one to accept any statement about the war unless it sounds altogether natural and reasonable in every respect.

It is also unfortunate that, as reported in the Post-Dispatch for the same date, an American General should be responsible for the following over-bloated statement: "A few days ago I stood on the field of Waterloo in Belgium. Our First Division could have crossed that, come back, and never known that it was in a fight. The Division was the finest of the fight for world democracy." I happened to have been in the First Division the whole time it was at the front, having just recently secured my discharge while in the Army of Occupation with this organization. The First made a most enviable record, and I'm proud to have been with it—but I dislike to see such an absurd boast made about even my own division, especially when I know that Napoleon's army would have again a modern army of equal size—and we were pretty generally agreed that his army could put up a mighty good fight. The infantry division, in fact, was fighting even today, and Napoleon, using most of his men in the infantry, could certainly fight back strongly against a modern army not having nearly so many men in the infantry. It was in the field of battle that Napoleon's army was able to advance against the Germans without artillery support of any kind.

The Americans were certainly a big factor in hastening the allied victory, but that is no basis for the boast, so many of the soldiers are inclined to make, that "We won the war" or "We taught them (the allies) how to fight." More of the credit for winning the war could, with much better grace, be bestowed on our allies, who, as it used to be generally agreed in this country, turned the tide of the war in the Battle of the Marne.

Music Is Necessary.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I have recently come from Chicago to St. Louis to reside. Picture shows are my chief recreation, especially those having good music. However, in this city this is only the case in the big time houses catering to the rich class of people. In Chicago the excellent picture show orchestras are the pride of every neighborhood—the proprietors there would not dare deny their patrons good music and expect to retain their patronage. Neighborhood shows here charge full price for their 50 per cent entertainment which seems to be nothing short of a half-up! Photo plays are sure dull and monotonous affairs without appropriate music, absolutely without appeal to the emotions. In fact, it gets on your nerves to hear the buzzing and grinding noises in the operator's booth. Music worth hearing often offsets poor pictures and tends to discourage conversation.

WHAT DO STRAPHANGERS THINK OF IT?

The U. R. receivership proceedings have their own points of value to young men desirous of taking up utility management as a career. Of greater practical helpfulness, however, on the everyday details of traction operation are the memoirs, opportunely issued in hand-book form while the Master in Chancery hearing is under way, of Mr. Julius Caesar Jackson, for many years chief special agent of our local street railway.

The testimony before the master and the contents of Mr. Jackson's volume, one of the most successful attempts of autobiographical form in which any St. Louisan has engaged in a long time, are linked in corroborative detail. References in the testimony are eloquent of the confidence reposed in Mr. Jackson by the magnates. He was in receipt of a handsome salary. Official schedules of expenditure show that substantial sums of the straphangers' money were turned over to him at monthly intervals, to disappear from his hand mysteriously and without accounting. We must conclude that Mr. Jackson had a particularly intimate view of the subjects whereof he treats and it would be a reflection on literary integrity to assume that he has not made accurate and trustworthy use of the abundant and valuable materials with which his personal experience has supplied him.

From his reminiscences it appears that as long ago as 1909 Mr. Jackson was devoting the most of his time and much company money to defeat all endeavors to form the U. R. employees into a union and obtain for them a just share of the company's receipts, with corresponding reduction, of course, in the sharp grabbed by the plunderbund. The missions of union organizers who came here were rendered fruitless by intimidation, bribery and the theft of their papers—theft to accomplish its purpose being nothing new in U. R. policies. Sometimes, with a view to discovering and promptly discharging receptive employees, the U. R. itself started a unionizing effort with printed appeals to the men to stand by their own interests. How one such astute effort fell short of its expected success because the company failed to put the union label on the circulars is graphically related. Such errors in the technique of executing promising plans are unfortunate but have their instruction and warning.

How jitney car competition was lessened and finally almost ended by hiring negroes with straphangers' nickels to ride in the service autos is not without interest. But a major chapter in the book tells of the reversal of the traditional attitude toward unions and adoption of the policy of up-to-date utility corporations generally, of using employees as stalking-horses to force increases in fares, the men to receive 10 or 15 per cent of such increases and the company to grab off the remainder. It seems that that extraordinary meeting at 2228 Olive street a year ago last winter, at which 3000 U. R. men enrolled in a union, was part of a company plot. It was expected that only a few of the intimidated employees would respond—enough to begin a bigger-pay, higher-fare clamor—but the movement got out of control; the bitter was bitten.

Burglary as a means of preventing the rejection of the surrender ordinance of the city administration was supplemented by Hun methods. Mr. Jackson, who gives an elaborate history of the referendum safe-cracking episode, says that 100 vials of the poison gas the Germans used were procured to break up a public meeting of protest. Why that timorous deference to humanity in deciding not to liberate the gas when only a few turned out? Those present undoubtedly included men who all their lives had been paying the U. R. their nickels. Why should any be spared?

Both receivership testimony and the memoirs show that to transport passengers between given city points with the greatest possible speed and comfort and at the lowest possible cost is only a small, perhaps an inconsequential, part of the traction business in St. Louis. But what do union men think of it all? What do the straphangers think of the disposition made of their nickels and the code of morals that guided our U. R. officials?

When the Memphis and Vicksburg river terminals are completed the service will open with the shippers' version of the docksology.

MERAMEC BANK ROBBERY.

The startling attempt to rob the Meramec Bank had nothing tending to encourage a continuance of bank robbery in this city. The same thing could not be said of the Villa-like raid on a Finney avenue store April 7, or of the robbery in which $59,000 was carried away from a Jesse James dash from the Baden Bank, May 10. Through the courage and persistence of Police Officers W. J. Smith, T. J. Ward, William O'Brien, Singleton and Weld and others, the Meramec bandits were followed in one of the most exciting pursuits in recent city history. The stolen money was speedily recovered and two desperate principals were by arrest permanently removed from the class of those who prey on the community.

This vindication of law was purchased at heavy cost. The death of courageous Policeman Ward will be regretted by all St. Louis. The recovery of Policeman Smith is earnestly hoped for.

LABOR'S PROHIBITION PROTEST.

The resolution opposing prohibition adopted by the American Federation of Labor is, first of all, a repudiation of the statements made by eminent prohibitionists that labor had never condemned the movement and, therefore, might be presumed to favor it. Such statements were disingenuous, not to use a harsher term, and such presumption was the unwarranted inference of special pleaders undeterred by scruples.

Under ordinary circumstances the conservatism of the resolution might be expected to have weight with the thoughtful members of Congress. But the modest petition that prohibition as decreed by the war-time act, and to be perpetuated by the constitutional amendment, be so modified as to permit the legal use of a mild form of beer will, in all probability be denied. The fanatics are now in control. They have come into power by duplicity, by hypocrisy and by a sinister opportunism, and it is their intention, as expressed by their authentic spokesman, Senator Sheppard of Texas, to use their power ruthlessly. There is to be no tolerance, no concession, no respect for the wishes or rights of those who do not subscribe to absolute prohibition. The most drastic laws are promised and their most rigorous enforcement.

So be it. But the enforcement of prohibition unsupported by public sentiment, offensive to a very large element of the people, will be accomplished only with great difficulty, at tremendous costs and by the employment of a huge army clothed with inquisitorial authority and with endless temptations, abusive and corrupt. It is a prospect which the smugly pharisaical may view with complacency, but which the sober-minded look forward to with foreboding.

The veteran labor leader, Gompers, a lifelong optimist confesses that, for the first time in his battling career, he is apprehensive of his country's future. There are many who share his fears.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

JUST A MINUTE

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE RACE PROBLEM IN HAITI.

WILLIAM ALMON WOLFE in Collier's Weekly.
THE Haitians are black. They look like the negroes Americans know at home. Superficially they resemble them very closely. They have much more in common with the negroes of the South than with those of Barbadoes and St. Kitts and the other islands of the British West Indies. But the resemblance is superficial. The Haitian negro has what no American negro has ever had—a race tradition of political freedom. And he is entirely unfamiliar with something that has been bred into the blood and the bone of our negro folk. The color line, the assertion of the inferiority of the negro race, is practically unknown in Haiti. Americans have been drawing that line since the occupation. But no real problem has been raised yet, and if those in control of the occupation are wise, it won't be.

You will find various strata, socially, in Haiti. There is a small element of highly cultivated, extremely well educated, prosperous people. They speak beautiful French; they have had their schooling, as a rule, in Paris. They live well; they entertain lavishly. They don't like the idea of being excluded from social functions given by Americans, but they don't as yet take that sort of thing very seriously. No other foreigners in Haiti even think of the color line; the American business men who have been there for many years ignore it, too.

But there are signs of trouble. For example, when the Atlantic fleet visited Port au Prince, in 1917, there was a dance. American officers danced with Haitian women; no American woman danced with a Haitian partner. There is still talk about that, but it is good-natured talk. A repetition would make trouble. This is not an easy problem to solve, of course. But it demands a solution. Below this top layer of cultured and educated people there is a sort of middle class—shopkeepers, traders of various sorts, minor Government officials, employees of foreign concerns. They can read and write, as a rule, but their education stops there. They are adaptable and intelligent and fairly ambitious. And, like the small upper class, they realize the benefits of the occupation and the imperative need of continued American control. Both these elements are, and are reasonably sure to continue to be, most emphatically favorable to the occupation.

But then you come to the great mass of the 2,000,000 or more inhabitants of Haiti. Education is unknown among them. Their life is primitive in the extreme. Their clothing represents weariness in the simplest terms. The men are lazy and shiftless; the women do practically all the work. They are an amiable folk, courteous, friendly, engaging in their manners. But they are the sort of people who tore President Guillaume Sam to pieces when they killed him, and who wrecked and destroyed everything that had belonged to him.

Verily, Verily, the Language of a Man's Hair Is Stranger and More Interesting Than Fiction, for by the Way in Which He Weareth His Locks Shall Ye Know Him.

By Helen Rowland.

Daughter, there be three things which are amusing unto me—say, four, which cause me to be mirthful:

The way of a fat woman in a hobbie skirt.

The way of a summer widow with a blonde manœuvre.

The way of a damsel with an "arm bound."

And the way of a man with the HAIR OF HIS HEAD!

For lo, when a woman arrangereth her locks it is for vanity's sake or style's sake or for art's sake or for love's sake.

But a Man's hair is his favorite ADVERTISEMENT!

And by the way in which he weareth it shall ye know him.

The Savage suffereth his locks to flow about his shoulders and adornment, with glittering ornaments and bright feathers, which is to say: "Beware, beware! I am FIERCE!"

But the first sign of a civilized man is a haircut, which is the symbol of intelligence.

Yet, when "Culture" cometh, he returneth unto his first love and pereth his cherished locks to grow again in divers and wonderful ways.

The Poet cultivateth a curling forelock, and the Musician rejoiceth in waving mane. Which is to say:

"Lo, I am a GENIUS!"

The College Professor sheareth the hair from his head and causeth it grow upon his chin.

For a Vandye is the emblem of the Highbrow and the sacred symbol of intellectuality.

The Soldier croppeth his back hair and removeth his beard, but causeth the foliage to grow upon his upper lip as a token of BRAVERY.

The Monk shaveth the top of his head to show forth his PIETY.

But the Baseball Player shaveth the back of his neck, which is to say: "I'M the GUY!"

And the "Johnny" slicketh back his pompadour so that it appeareth to be PAINTED on his scalp!

Behold, in all the world there are but two men who take no joy in STUNTS with their hair and revel not in "Nature's Crown of Beauty."

Even the Convict and the Baldheaded Man.

Yet, of these two the Convict is the more human, for he suffereth great sorrow and humiliation when his locks are shorn.

But the Baldheaded Man goeth forth boldly "inclined on top."

And neither vanity nor mercy nor modesty shall cause him to cover his blushing scalp.

Go to! A woman will encumber herself with two pounds of false hair for love of a man who would not so much as camouflage his bald spot with a spee for love of a GODDESS!

Verily, verily, the Explorer and the Scientist waste their time upon Language of birds and monkeys and Hottentots; let the Lover learn Language of the Flowers and the Flirt practice the Language of the Eyes.

But unto a feminine Psychologist the Language of a Man's HAIR is stranger and infinitely more interesting than fiction.

After the spring cleaning is finished you can get the paint out of clothes by saturating the stains several times with equal parts of gasoline and ammonia and then wash in soap suds.

If you are thinking of repapering from this spring make the paste using one pound of bread flour with a little cold water until smooth. Stir in a tea kettle full of boiling water. A tablespoonful of powdered alum added to it will keep the paste from becoming moldy.

You can freshen the Oriental rug by wiping with water in which borax and ammonia have been dissolved. The mixture will in no wise injure the rug.

Diamond Engagement Rings in China.

Diamond engagement rings for diamond-eyed Celestial maidens are blazing the way of Occidental civilization in its invasion of China. The engagement ring set with diamonds is one effect white man's civilization has had on my country," said Chang Hop Li, a Chinese merchant visiting Chicago. "Chinese girls, who never in all the centuries adorned themselves with much diamond jewelry, have taken up this new fashion of wearing a diamond engagement ring. The maids of the middle classes and even those in humbler walks of life, now feel themselves slighted and held in cheap esteem if their suitors do not give them a diamond to sparkle on their finger in token of their approaching nuptials. It is now the accepted thing for a young man to tell his sweetheart with a diamond that he loves her."

"This style, adopted from Occidental peoples has brought new prosperity to the Chinese jewelry merchants. Diamonds are in great demand in China, not only for rings, but for all other jewelry purposes. The supply is nothing like equal to market demands. The larger houses are now sending diamond buyers not only to South Africa, but to Amsterdam and other diamond centers of Europe. The Chinese trade is in cut and polished stones only."

"If the Chinese girls have learned from their Occidental sisters to beautify with diamonds, they also have learned from the same source to wear comfortable shoes. The old custom of binding which once cramped and deformed a Chinese girl's feet has been abandoned. Chinese girls now wear low-heeled walking shoes and would scorn to make themselves uncomfortable with French heels worn so commonly by American women."

what do you think, mother?"

"I thought it would be the simplest and most straightforward thing; I thought they were right."

"Very well. We'll agree it was simple and straightforward. Now, what do you think of that letter it sent?"

SHE hesitated, looking away. "I—of course I don't agree with him the way he speaks of you, dear—except about the angel! I don't agree with some of the things he implies. You've always been unselfish—nobody knows that better than your mother. When Fanny was left with nothing, you were so quick and generous to give up what really should have come to you, and—"

Are You Superstitious?

By IMOGENE BURCH

The Unlucky Opal.

A WELL-known Chicago broker recently failed in business. In his mind there was only one explanation of that failure. He had been wearing a huge ring set with a valuable Mexican opal. So the day after his failure he took the opal ring out into his yard and smashed it into a hundred pieces. As he attributed his ruin in stocks solely to the malignant influence of the stone, he intended neither to suffer such misfortune again nor to allow any one else to do so by inheriting or buying the ill-starred property.

If the man had pursued the matter further he might have discovered that there is a genuine reason for the harmful repute of this gem. Two or three centuries ago, the jewel was popular in Europe and the jewelers in Italy were particularly clever in setting it. At the height of its popularity came the plague which made havoc in Venice.

Then some observant person in that city made a remarkable discovery. It was noticed that when a person was at the point of death, his opal, if he wore one, brightened, while after death it became dull. This accession of brilliance was thought to imply a sort of evil purpose or intelligence in the stone, which was therefore charged with the death of its owner.

It is strange that it never occurred to the scientist of that day to turn the incident around the other way and see that it was the patient who changed the stone. For the heightened fever which preceded the patient's death, caused the stone to become more brilliant, and the chill and damp afterwards dulled it, setting it. At the height of its

MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

CROP REPORTS CAUSE HIGHER CORN MARKET

Futures Gain About 2 Cents in Trading on Merchants' Exchange.

Strong-arm methods of speculative traders advanced the corn market in the early dealings here today, despite the most favorable weather map of the season. Seasonable temperatures prevailed over the entire corn belt and rain was absent over Iowa, where reports of too much moisture have been current.

Hog prices were 20c to 25c higher in the early livestock trading, but corn receipts here totaled 59,000 bu., against 56,000 bu. last year. In Chicago, arrivals were 323,000 bu., against 295,000 bu. last year.

Oats futures were strong with corn and distant options averaged about 1c higher. Weather over the belt was generally favorable conditions.

Oats receipts here today were 124,600 bu., against 96,000 bu. last year. Shipments were 114,000 bu., against 21,000 bu.

July corn opened 1/2c higher at 17 1/2c and rose to 17 3/4c, then lost to 17 1/2c. Sept. oats were quoted 1 1/2c higher at 68 1/2c.

The Modern Miller says that deterioration in both wheat belts is reported. Harvesting was checked by rains in Oklahoma and some wheat is tough in consequence. Losses are noted in Nebraska by Orange Leaf rust and further deterioration is feared. Red rust is also prevalent.

Grasshoppers and grasshoppers have damaged wheat in Minnesota. South Dakota and sections of North Dakota. Adequate rains in Montana have caused poor condition of wheat and rice. Wheat is heading in Iowa and Nebraska. Cutting is on in Southern Kansas.

Russell's News of New York says the Argentine exports of corn were quite liberal and out of a total of over 2,000,000 bu. there was cleared for the United States 525,000 bu. This, in part, bears out claims of liberal purchases by American interests and forecasts quite liberal receipts of this grain.

Whether any of this corn will find its way West or not is a question, but inquiries from Western sources are in the market and local Argentine au-

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

SLIGHTLY LOWER DRIFT
TO NEW YORK STOCKSMarket Reflects Considerable Profit-Taking in the Favorite Shares.

NEW YORK, June 13.

Irregular changes marked the opening of the stock market today, but most shares were lower. Trading was broad and active in many issues. Motor stocks were easier.

Holders of United States Steel common stock of record May 29, when the books closed for the June dividend, numbered 74,071, compared with 78,018 the previous quarter and 72,759 at the end of November.

This is the first time in two years that the number of holders of Little Steel has shown a decline. In May, 1917, 43,542 stockholders were recorded. They increased to 44,759 in the third quarter and 51,659 in the final quarter of that year.

Distribution of steel common continued throughout 1918 without interruption and at the end of the year there were 72,759 holders of the common stock. In February the record of 78,018 was reached.

The trend of steel common into the hands of the public during the past two years has indicated not only by the number of stockholders listed but by the figures on brokers' and investors' holdings. On March 31 investors held 3,105,959 shares, or 61.09 per cent of the total issue, and brokers 197,706 shares, or 38.91 per cent. At the end of 1918, brokers' holdings had been 2,550,436 shares, or 54.4 per cent, and investors owned 1,725,849 shares, or 41.55 per cent.

This means that since the end of 1918, nearly as possible one-fifth of the total issue of steel common has been transferred from the hands of brokers to individual holders and presumably most of this stock has been taken out of the market.

Additional Ships Would Lower Coffee Prices.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Joint Coffee Trade Committee, representing the Green Coffee Merchants and Roasters of the United States, today sent out to more than 500 dealers throughout the country copies of a letter to Edward S. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, urging prompt establishment of the proposed government steamship service between North and South America. Hurley's facilities, it was stated, would contribute toward bringing about a reduction in coffee prices.

The letter pointed out that coffee constituted the greater part of the freight tonnage from Brazil and Columbia to the United States for 12 months ending June 1 following 1,000,000 pounds.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE WAIL OF A PUP.

Man thinks he plays a lot of parts
Before his years are rounded up.
But say! He really never starts.
He ought to try to be a pup.
To be a pup, and have a boy
With fresh ideas every day
Who takes a wild and fiendish joy
Inventing parts for him to play.

I've been a boche in Belleau Wood
And had Yank bullets shot at me;
I've been a Turk and I have stood
The gunfire at Gallipoli.
I've been the Kaiser, often times
And had a noose about my neck.
The while I listened to my crimes
And rapidly became a wreck.

I've been a hook and ladder horse
And had them run me off my feet;
I've been a thief, while half the force
Pursued me madly down the street.
I've figured at a barbecue—
The part assigned me was the ox—
But just as dinner time was due
I always wriggled from the box.

I've been a lion and a bear,
A tiger and a Hotentot
And other creatures strange and rare,
But always something that got shot.
I've been old Jonah, and the whale—
A cracker crate—has thrown me up;
I've been marooned, I've been in jail
And still it's fun to be a pup!

IT OUGHT TO BE A WONDER.
With her military limited to a hundred thousand Germany can have an army composed exclusively of Major-Generals.

LOU GUERNSEY was defending one party to an auto collision and was cross-examining a lady witness who was undeniably pretty. "Have you any idea what caused this accident?" thundered Lou. "I think so," said the fair witness sweetly.

"Then tell the Court how it happened," thundered Lou, eager for facts. "Must I tell the truth?" "You have sworn to do so." "Well, sir, I was standing on the corner, and that gentleman turned to look at something and ran into the other machine." "Ah," divined the astute Guernsey. "He turned to look at you. That makes you an accessory before the fact, madame." "I—I think it was the—the accessories he was looking at," murmured the witness.—Argonaut.
